"Lies; Dirty Politics," Fain Says to Charges; Is Elected Chairman

Mayor Woodward Says New Chairman's Past Record Is Studded With Joy Rides and Evenings Spent in Gambling Dens.

COURTS EXONERATED ME, ASSERTS HEAD OF ATLANTA POLICE BOARD

"Hugh Dorsey Says You Settled Indictments by Paying $500 for Each," Charges Woodward. "Then Dorsey Is a Liar," Replies Fain.

Despite caustic attacks by Mayor James G. Woodward, and bitter denunciation of the "past record" of Police Commissioner W. P. Fain, which the mayor declared was studded with nightly joy rides with prostitutes and evenings spent in pursuit of the game of chance in bawdy houses and gambling dens, Mr. Fain was elected by his friends as chairman of the police commission for the ensuing year at last night's reorganization meeting.

The mayor produced two copies of indictments as evidence of his charges, one of which, the mayor declared, charged Mr. Fain with operating a bawdy house, and the other with assault and battery upon the person of the madame of the alleged bawdy house.

Mr. Fain emphatically branded all the charges as "lies, and dirty politics."

"Solicitor Hugh Dorsey says that these indictments against you," replied the mayor, "were settled out of court for $500 each."

"Then Hugh Dorsey is a liar," howled Mr. Fain.

How They Voted.

Those voting for Mr. Fain were Commissioners Wardlaw, Vernoy, Vaughan, Sisson, King, Holland and Fain, giving him a vote of seven, the needed majority.

Opposing Mr. Fain was Commissioner H. T. Pace, who received four votes, he himself asking to be allowed not to cast his vote.

Those voting for Mr. Pace were Commissioners Edwin Johnson, Bob Clarke, Colonel James W. English and Mayor Woodward.

Mayor Woodward, acting as chairman, called the new police board to order and swore in the new commissioners. He immediately called for nominations for the chairmanship.

Commissioner Andy King placed before the board the name of Mr. Fain. Commissioner Clarke nominated Mr. Pace.

Mayor Woodward then arose to explain why he felt that he could not vote for Commissioner Fain as chairman. The mayor said:

Too Much Fanaticism, Says Mayor.

"We have had too much fanaticism governing police matters recently.

"I feel that it is my duty to explain why I cannot afford to vote for Mr. Fain when the police board is being governed by so much religion. Mr. Fain, I like personally, but one year ago when he was running for the board chairmanship he came to my office and I then advised him not to run, telling him that he could not afford to do so.

"I plainly told him that I could not vote for him on account of his past record. I have a past record, but nineteen-twentieths of the scandal against me has been nothing more than dirty, political lies.

"This is not true with Mr. Fain. Here are two indictments charging solicitor general's office, which reveal Mr. Fain's record in more vivid style than I can depict.

"His past record is studded with nightly joy rides with prostitutes and evenings spent in pursuit of the game of chance in bawdy houses and gambling dens.

"Under the present conditions we can not afford to elect Mr. Fain as chairman."

"Lies," Asserts Fain.

Here Commissioner Vernoy and Mr. Fain arose to interrupt the mayor, and immediately followed a stormy scene, dramatic in every respect, when Mr. Fain denied the charges and "lies" were hurled back and forth across the commissioners' table.

"And you, Mr. Vernoy," said the mayor, dramatically pointing his finger in the commissioner's face, "were present in my office when I explained to Mr. Fain one year ago why I could not vote for him, and you yourself then refused for eleven months to vote for him, tying up the race for chairman of last year's board during that period."

Mr. Vernoy admitted that the mayor's words were true.

"Now, I want to say another word," said the mayor, again taking up his speech. "It is about certain newspapers in Atlanta that have referred to such honest, law-abiding and respectable gentlemen as Mr. Pace, Mr. Clarke, Mr. Johnson and Colonel English as 'liberals,' who were supporting a movement to oust Beavers and re-open the town. This is nothing but newspaper fanaticism. We men are the conservatives on this board. Not one of us has ever dragged the police board into dirty politics. We are not an element after Beavers and a town with the lid on.

"I regret that it was my duty to have to bring these charges against Mr. Fain, but these things I feel ought to be brought to the attention of the board and the public."

Mr. Fain then declared that he had

$1,000,000 Smuggle Scheme Is Hatched In Atlanta Prison

Grobe Gets Out of United States Penitentiary Just in Time to Get in Again.

An indictment, announced in an Associated Press dispatch, by a New York grand jury yesterday of Hugo Grobe, revealed the dream of a million dollar smuggling scheme hatched in the Atlanta federal penitentiary and an attempt to set it in motion from behind the prison walls so daring that it staggers the imagitation.

The dispatch states that Grobe was indicted upon a charge of conspiring to smuggle opium into this country from Germany, the success of which plan he expected to net him $1,000,000 annually.

Released From Atlanta Pen.

Grobe, formerly a Hamburg-American officer, was recently released from the Atlanta prison at the expiration of a term of years under a former conviction of smuggling opium.

While giving the Atlanta prison authorities every assurance upon his release he intended to lead an honest life, it is alleged that Grobe was even then sitting in his cell perfecting a scheme by which, with the aid of an accomplice in Germany, he would smuggle the drug into America again, and on a larger scale than ever, by concealing the opium in rifle cartridges and in potatoes.

Grobe's accomplice in Germany, it is said, was also a retired Hamburg-American officer, and before Grobe was released from the federal prison he wrote letters to this officer revealing his plan. Although these letters were written in code and were translatable directly only into foreign languages, including German and Italian, they proved to be Grobe's undoing.

Officers Get Code.

It is understood that the convict's plan was first discovered by the Atlanta federal prison authorities themselves and that the letters were intercepted by them, through instructions to have them returned to the federal prison authorities from their destination unopened. The letters being thus secured, the authorities were still at loss since they were written in code. But prison authorities were then able to get hold of Grobe's key to the code, without Grobe's knowledge, it is said, and to translate the letters into the various languages in which they were meant to be read. The letters were then translated into English.

The case was turned over to Captain J. M. Wright, local secret service agent, who took it up with other federal secret service officers.

And so it was, when at last Grobe gained his freedom, the net was all set for him and he was soon arrested in New York. The conviction by the grand jury followed.

QUART OF LIQUOR EVERY TWO WEEKS FOR "TAR HEELS"

Raleigh, N. C., March 9.—The general assembly of North Carolina adjourned sine die at 10:55 o'clock, after being in session for sixty-three days, three days longer than the period for which legislators are paid.

The two measures of the greatest importance which became law was that by which a legalized state-wide primary for all parties is to be held in election years on the first Saturday in June, and the strengthening of the prohibition law by reducing the amount of whisky to be received by any one person in this state from a gallon a week to a quart every fifteen days, and of malt liquor from five gallons a week to five gallons every fifteen days. Transportation companies and persons violating the law are to be guilty of a misdemeanor, the law going into effect April 1, 1915.

Night Riding a Felony.

Nashville, Tenn., March 9.—The Tennessee house of representatives yesterday afternoon passed on final reading a bill making night riding in the state a felony, the penalty being fifteen years in prison. The bill had already passed the senate.

The Fluff of Crepe de Chine

Nothing—not the soft silks of China, Japan and India; nor the fine linens of Ireland; nor the dainty cottons of England; nor the heavy, lustrous satins of France—is nothing more alluring in the way of silk has ever been manufactured than clingy, yielding, sheer and lovely crepe de chine.

Crepe de chine is now being used extensively for underwear—probably because of its durability, for, if care is taken in the washing, its attraction is as great after it is laundered as before.

And, because of its charm, it has come to take the place, with many, of the fine French lingerie, which was at one time thought to be superior to anything else of its kind.

In the columns of The Constitution are to be found the advertisements of merchants who carry a complete stock of crepe de chine undercloth-ing in all sorts of designs, and in all the soft shades of color. Read these advertisements for information interesting to every woman.

Famous "Mirror Eye" of Fiction's Pages Is a Reality in Case of Atlanta Boy

Most Noted Specialists of Entire World Considering Remarkable Vision of Harold Lutzk.

A case of remarkable vision which will interest the medical and scientific profession throughout the world, has been discovered in the case of an Atlanta boy.

It is the "Mirror Eye." In fiction the "Mirror Eye" has been made the basis of many strange plots and occult tales. In actual life it is rare, so rare that when a case is discovered it is made the subject of scientific investigation and report in every branch of medical science.

Harold Lutzk, an Atlanta boy, has what is declared to be a pronounced "mirror eye." He sees every object as those of normal vision see it in a mirror. What he writes can only be read by viewing it in a mirror, for he writes backwards, not only making his words in a reverse manner, but also his characters.

The boy is Harold Lutzk, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Lutzk, of 60 Connally street, a pupil in the first grade of the Fair Street school. He is a fine looking and bright lad and is doing his best, despite his remarkable vision, to learn how to read and write.

Only a very few such cases have ever been reported in the world. His physi-

Hanged and Buried By a Georgia Mob, Cox Still Lives

Weird Story Told by Fortune Teller—Two Other Men Hanged With Him.

Washington, March 9.—(Special.)—The Washington Times this afternoon publishes the following weird story of how a man was hanged and buried at Apple Tree, Ga., but lived to relate the tale which follows:

"Alexandria, Va., March 9.—Waller Cox, a fortune teller, told Justice Canon, in police court today, that he had been hanged by a mob in Apple Tree, Ga., for refusing to help capture a murderer. Two other men were hanged with him, he said, and the limb which was used as a gallows, broke under the strain. The next morning, he declared, he was picked up by passers-by and buried in a shallow trench. He became conscious while the funeral services were going on, he said, and, as soon as the party went away, pushed his way through the dirt and made an escape.

KILLED HIS WIFE, FOUGHT 20 "COPS," THEN KILLED SELF

Richmond, Ind., March 9.—Nathan Hilling, 45, shot and killed his wife here tonight, wounded a policeman who attempted to capture him, and after a revolver battle with twenty officers killed himself.

Hilling fled to a barn after killing his wife and Patrolman John Cully and two boys who followed him were shot by a ball of bullets, two of which wounded Cully. The boys dragged the officer out of range and went for help.

Twenty patrolmen were rushed to the barn. Automatic pistols were thrown on the building and the officers opened fire. A few minutes later fire enveloped the building and found Hilling dead with a bullet from his own revolver in his brain.

Americans Are Warned To Leave Mexico City; Warships to Vera Cruz

U. S. IS FOR VILLA, THINKS HOWARD.

Congressman, Back Home, Says Mexican Situation Is So Serious U. S. May Have to Take a Hand.

The Mexican situation is now more serious than it has ever been and the United States has determined upon a definite course in regard to that country, according to the opinion of Congressman William Schley Howard, of the fifth Georgia district, who returned to his home in Kirkwood yesterday.

"The Mexican situation, I believe, is much worse than it has ever been," said Congressman Howard. "I do not believe, however, that the United States will find it necessary to send an army to Mexico, but I do think that a definite policy has been outlined by the government.

"This policy, I believe, will be for the United States government to throw its moral support to the strongest available Mexican leader with the understanding that he shall go into Mexico City and establish a government. This government established, I believe, the United States will recognize it immediately. I believe that Villa is the man whom the United States will choose for this work.

"Should Villa, or whoever is chosen, fail in the establishment of a government, I believe the United States will appoint a commission to go to Mexico and establish a government."

Nothing to Say About Moyer.

Congressman Howard declined to discuss the report that the removal of Warden Moyer from the Atlanta federal prison is imminent.

While delicate situations are continually arising between the United States and the belligerent powers of Europe, Congressman Howard sees no reason to fear that the United States will be drawn into the vortrex of war.

"It will be a difficult matter, however," he admitted, "to keep meddlesome jingoes from throwing us into the fight, but if Wilson lives we will avoid war and without loss of dignity in any particular. It is a situation which calls for great statesmanship. Wilson measures up to the moment."

He declared that he believes the embargo which England has placed upon cotton going into Germany can be amicably adjusted so that the south can still find a market in the warring Teutonic countries for her staple product.

The Democratic Outlook.

Touching upon the condition of the democratic party, he said:

NOTE TO GEN. CARRANZA VERY STRONGLY WORDED

He Is Told United States Is Tired of the "Intolerable" Conditions and That He Will Be Held Responsible for Safety of Foreigners.

Washington, March 9.—American citizens again have been warned to leave Mexico City in view of the critical situation.

Secretary Bryan announced tonight that transportation facilities would be sought for as many as desired to leave.

The battleship Georgia and the armored cruiser Washington were ordered by Secretary Daniels, after conferences with President Wilson, to proceed immediately to Vera Cruz.

Consular messages from Vera Cruz stated that it was reported there that the evacuation of Mexico City began last night.

Enrique C. Lorraine, General Villa's Washington representative, received a message saying Zapatista forces occupied Mexico City today immediately on the evacuation by Obregon's troops.

Word came from American Consul Silliman that at a personal interview with General Carranza he had delivered the formal note from the United States government demanding an improvement in conditions for foreigners in the territory under his control.

These were the principal developments today in the Mexican situation, the importance of which today overshadowed in official Washington interest in the European war.

NOTE TO CARRANZA STRONGLY WORDED.

Although the contents of the note to Carranza were not announced, its tone impressed members of the diplomatic corps that serious consequences would ensue if Carranza failed to heed its demands. The United States, it was learned, described conditions as "intolerable," and called on Carranza to take steps necessary to correct the situation. Incendiary utterances of

BLOODY FOOTPRINTS USED BY THE STATE TO CONVICT WOMAN

Bridgeport, Conn., March 9.—The state claimed today, in the trial of Mrs. Helen M. Angle for manslaughter in connection with the death of Waldo R. Ballou, that bloody footprints found in her apartments and on landings leading to them in the Rippowam building in Stamford, were made by her.

Evidence to support this claim was put in by the testimony of a specialist who told of examinations he had made of footprints in the Angle rooms, and later of Mrs. Angle's feet. Earlier in the day the state unexpectedly produced impressions of Mrs. Angle's feet, the impressions being entered in evidence after an objection by the defense had brought an explanation from the state's attorney that it was the prosecution's intention to show that Mrs. Angle's feet made the blood imprints in the building.

Dr. Bruce S. Weaver, of New York, said that the tests he had made with thirty samples of stains taken from the Angle rooms and the hallways, most of them found crystals, indicating the presence of blood. In thirteen specimens, however, he found no crystals. The latter tests did not show the specimens were of human blood. They merely showed the presence of blood, he said.

GIRL, 13, ATTEMPTS TO FOLLOW CHUM BY POISON ROUTE

Augusta, Ga., March 9.—(Special.)—Mary Ruth Martin, 17, and Nora Kelly, 13, are at a local hospital after taking bichloride of mercury. Nora took the poison last Wednesday, and as a result Mary was taken and ordered by the court to the reform school at Atlanta. She got permission to pack her trunk, and a detective went with her to her boarding house. Saying she wished to change her clothing, the officer left her alone for a few moments, when she took the poison. While set out of danger, the police surgeon believes they will both recover.

Germany's Peace Terms To Be Told to Reichstag By Imperial Chancellor

London, March 10.—(2:08 a. m.)—The Daily Telegraph's Paris correspondent says he learns that Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German imperial chancellor, will make a statement in the reichstag today setting forth the terms on which Germany is willing to make peace.

GIVING NO WARNING, GERMAN SUBMARINES SINK BRITISH SHIPS

The Tangistan Torpedoed Off Scarborough and 37 of Her Crew Lost—The Blackwood Was Destroyed Off Hastings and the Princess Victoria Off Liverpool—Latest Exploits of Submarines Came as Britons Were Thinking German Blockade Had Failed.

London, March 10.—(2:25 a. m.)—German submarines appeared early Tuesday morning at three widely separated points on the British coast, and, it is stated officially, without giving warning to the crews, sank three British merchant steamers.

In one case, that of the steamer Tangistan, which was torpedoed off Scarborough, in the North sea, 37 men of her crew of 38 are missing. Only one man from the vessel was picked up. The attack which sent the Tangistan to the bottom was made half an hour after midnight.

At 4 o'clock in the morning another submarine sank the steamer Blackwood, off Hastings, in the English channel, while a third submarine sank the steamer Princess Victoria off Liverpool at 9:15 o'clock.

News of the latest exploits of German submarines came just as the British public was congratulating themselves that the threatened German sea blockade had been a failure.

The official statement says:

"The steamer Tangistan was sunk by a German submarine off Scarborough at 12:30 o'clock the morning of March 9. Only one man of her crew of thirty-eight men was saved.

"The steamer Blackwood was sunk by a submarine, without warning, off Hastings, at 4 o'clock the morning of March 9. Her crew of seventeen was saved.

"The steamer Princess Victoria, of Glasgow, was sunk without warning by a German submarine off Liverpool, the morning of March 9 off Liverpool. Her crew of thirty-four was saved."

SHIPS PROBABLY SUNK BY DIFFERENT BOATS.

The official report announcing the torpedoing of the British steamers Tangistan, Blackwood and Princess Victoria—the two former cargo boats and the later once a coastwise passenger ship—indicates that German submarines again are raiding at widely separated points around the British isles. As each of the boats was torpedoed in a period of less than nine hours, it would seem probable that all three were sunk by different underwater boats.

Scarborough, off which the Tangistan was sunk, is on the North sea, in Yorkshire; Hastings is on the English channel, in Sussex, and Liverpool is virtually on the Irish sea.

The Tangistan, the largest of the sunken vessels, was of 2,293 tons displacement. She was built in 1905 and owned by the Strick Line of Swansea.

The Blackwood was built in 1897 and belonged to the Tyneside Line of North Shields. She was a 741-ton vessel.

The Princess Victoria was owned by M. Langlands & Sons, of Glasgow. She was a steamer of 416 tons displacement, and was built in 1894.

ONLY ONE MAN ESCAPED FROM THE TAGISTAN.

Westhartlepool, March 10.—(Via London, 1:19 a. m.)—The crew of thirty-eight men of the British steamer Tangistan, were drowned, except one man, according to a statement made by the sole survivor of the vessel, landed here by the steamer Woodville.

"The Tangistan," said this man, "was torpedoed off Scarborough. She was struck amidships and went down almost immediately. All the members of the crew were in the lifeboats, but they were unable to disconnect the lowering tackle before the ship sank and dragged down with the boats with her. I caught a piece of wreckage and clung to it for nearly three hours in the icy water until I was rescued."

The survivor of the Tangistan is James O'Toole, an Englishman. Sixteen men of the crew were English

WEDGE BEING DRIVEN INTO GERMAN LINES BY RUSSIAN FORCES

Victory of Czar's Troops in North Poland Threatens to Cut Communication Between Kaiser's Armies.

GERMANS ARE CHECKED IN CENTRAL POLAND

Kaiser's New Drive at Warsaw Fails and Russians Take Offensive — Hard Fighting in West—French Claim Gains.

London, March 9.—In the east and the west fighting between the Germans and the allies continues. The Russians claim another victory in the region of Augustowo, in north Poland, a short distance from the East Prussian frontier, which threatens to break communication between the Germans near the Lower Niemen and those before Ossowetz.

In central Poland the battle which had promised to develop on the Pilica river seems to have died down, owing, as Petrograd puts it, to the Russians being too strong for the Germans, who were forced to abandon their offensive and fall back under a Russian counter attack.

Things seemingly have changed little in the Carpathians, although the Russians, according to their reports, apparently have improved their position on the Hungarian side of the Dukla pass. Petrograd claims an Austrian defeat near Svidnik, on the Ondawa river a considerable distance inside Hungarian territory. The Austrians, however, are still attacking the Russians south of Boligrod, on the Galician side of the mountains, east of the Dukla pass.

The Vosges mountains, the Champagne district and the Arras region continue to be the scenes of hard fighting in the west, but apparently neither side has gained any distinct advantage.

General Louis Botha's campaign against German Southwest Africa, which has almost been lost sight of owing to the bigger events in Europe and Asia, is progressing. One of Botha's armies, marching in the south, is reported to have occupied a German camp north of Ukamas, forty miles north of the border, and to have captured a large number of tents, provisions, clothing and transport animals.

GERMANS DRIVEN BY RUSSIANS.

Petrograd, March 9.—Efforts to dislodge the right and left flank of the German forces operating in the Suwalki district of northern Poland apparently are bringing some success and only the German center, in the region of Simno, seems to be holding firm in possession of the positions recently gained in the advance from East Prussia. The German left flank is reported to have retired to positions in the region of Mariampol-Virsbalova and Eidcunen. The right flank, reports from the front say, has retreated hastily 30 miles from Grodno toward Augustowo through bogs and forests.

The retreat of the German right wing, now within 3 miles of the frontier, is regarded as especially damaging to the Germans, since it severs the communications of the German northern army with the army to the south, whose left wing is besieging Ossowets. This second German army thus is left open to an attack from the rear by the Russian forces advancing between the Bobr and Augustowo.

According to the Russian military authorities, the Germans have perceived the trend of this situation, and already are removing their heavy batteries from before Ossowets, preparatory to a retreat toward the Bobr.

The following communication was issued tonight:

"On the whole front between the Niemen and the Vistula the fighting yesterday was of an extremely desperate character. Our cavalry captured part of a supply column which was falling back on the village of Seiny.

"In the region of Augustowo a battle has begun two versts (about a mile and the others Arabs. The boats had been swung out because of fear of submarines and most of the men on board wore lifebelts when the vessel was torpedoed. O'Toole later said that four other men caught pieces of wreckage and remained afloat for some time.

"Two boats," he said, "passed close by within an hour or two. We all shouted to them, but they did not hear or see us. One of the men yelled over to me that this was his second experience with a German submarine, as he had been saved some months ago from a vessel that had been blown up in the North sea.

"When the Woodville came up her boats cruised about trying to find my companions, but three was no trace of them."

NO WARNING GIVEN, SAY THE SURVIVORS.

New Haven, England, March 10.—(Via London, 10:30 a. m.)—The captain and crew of the steamer Blackwood, which was sunk off Hastings at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning, were landed here Tuesday night. They say their vessel, bound from Blyth for Havre, was torpedoed without warning, eighty miles south of Dungeness.

Fearing submarines, the men say they had their boats swung out and ready for launching and that, therefore, all were saved. Nobody was injured.

The vessel sank within ten minutes after she was struck.

According to the men, a submarine was observed just aswash of the Blackwood, but her number could not be seen. An officer says he saw the periscope of another submarine close by.

STEERSMAN SAW TORPEDO COMING.

Liverpool, March 10.—(Via London, 2:25 a. m.)—The crew of the steamer Princess Victoria were picked here in two small boats late yesterday. The men were suffering from exposure. Telling of the sinking of his vessel by a German submarine, the captain said:

"The submarine discharged a torpedo at us without even showing her periscope. At 9:15 o'clock the steersman suddenly shouted, 'A torpedo is coming.' He had seen the white swirl of the missile. Even as he spoke it hit us, and a violent explosion followed, which caused the vessel instantly to list heavily.

"I ordered two boats overboard, and the crew scrambled into them. Our ship disappeared in about fifteen minutes. We rowed in the direction of Liverpool. Five hours in the open boats nearly did us up."

STEAMER ESCAPES FROM SUBMARINE.

Liverpool, March 10.—(Via London, 1:55 a. m.)—The Clan Line steamer Clan MacRae was chased by a German submarine off the Mersey bar, in the Irish sea, yesterday (Tuesday) morning for twenty-five minutes.

The steamer escaped by zig-zagging at full speed.

The Clan MacRae left Port Natal January 21 for Liverpool.

FIVE SHIPS SUNK BY THE GERMAN U-16.

London, March 9.—A Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam says:

"German submarine U-16 was responsible for the sinking of five of the allied steamers destroyed since the commencement of the submarine blockade, according to Otto von Gottberg, who gives in a Berlin newspaper an account of the cruise of the U-16.

"The submarine was commanded by Commander Hansen, who was in Scotland when war was declared and who got away on the last steamer.

"Soon after her departure from Kiel, according to Von Gottberg, the U-16 encountered a British cruiser and a destroyer, but torpedoes she fired missed them. She next sank the steamer Laertes, which outstearmed her.

"The submarine's trenches had was the British steamer Dulwich. The second was the French steamer Ville de Lille and the third the French steamer Dinorah, all of which have been reported in the British official accounts as having been sunk.

"Von Gottberg does not give the names of the other two steamers he claims were sunk, but declares that during the cruise one French steamer was not molested as she had women and children on board.

"This," says Von Gottberg, "may have been chivalrous on the captain's part, but Germans hardly will approve of the action of submarine commanders if they allow their tenderness of heart to get the better of them."

Otto von Gottberg is the war correspondent of the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger. He has written descriptive articles for chiefly on the German navy and its activities. One of these concerned the North sea engagement of January 24, in which the German armored cruiser Blucher was sunk. For it he used information obtained from men who took part in the fight.

The U-16 has been given credit for sinking the Ville de Lille off Cherbourg February 17, but was not mentioned in connection with the other two steamers.

The French steamer Dinorah was torpedoed off Dieppe, France, February 19, but was reported to have been towed into Dieppe for repairs. The Dulwich was blown up off Havre February 16.

ONLY 15 SHIPS SUNK OUT OF TOTAL OF 8,734.

London, March 9.—Fifteen British steamers sunk out of a total of 8,734 vessels of more than 300 tons which arrived at British ports or departed from them from January 21 to March 3 was the record of achievement of German submarines, according to figures issued by the admiralty. Vessels of all nationalities are taken into account, excluding, however, those used by the admiralty for naval and military purposes. Twenty-nine members of the crews of the steamers torpedoed lost their lives.

The total number of vessels which arrived at British ports during that period was 4,619, while the number which departed was 4,115. The figures given by the admiralty follow:

January 21 to February 2—Arrivals, 680; torpedoed, 1.

January 24 to February 3—Arrivals, 677; sailings, 743; torpedoed, 6; lives lost, 20.

February 4 to February 10—Arrivals, 754; sailings, 664; torpedoed, none.

February 11 to February 17—Arrivals, 752; sailings, 686; torpedoed, 1; lives lost, 2.

February 18 to February 24—Arrivals, 708; sailings, 673; torpedoed, 7; lives lost, 7.

February 25 to March 3—Arrivals, 905; sailings, 669; torpedoed, none.

Twenty-five ships, the admiralty statement says, were unsuccessfully attacked between February 1 and March 3.

WEDGE BEING DRIVEN INTO GERMAN LINES

"The artillery of Ossowetz is successfully engaging the enemy's siege batteries.

"An attack by the Germans on the Pilica and Ilzanka roads was repulsed.

"South of Khorjele, the enemy is bringing great forces into the fighting line. The Germans, who took the offensive south of Drobin, were repulsed with heavy losses.

"On the left bank of the Vistula in the Plock region the action is alternatively offensive and defensive. We have captured prisoners and machine guns.

"In the Carpathians in the region of Boligrod, the Austrians continue their offensive notwithstanding their crushing losses. Near the village of Studente, the enemy captured the advanced trenches of two of our battalions. In the Uzsok-Munkaos region the enemy's offensive was barren of results.

"After a desperate battle the enemy on the seventh captured the greater part of Hill No. 992 near Kojiovka, but yesterday morning our counter attack was crowned with success and the enemy was dislodged from all the trenches he had captured.

"To the northeast of Klousse we took prisoners of the remnants of an Austrian column which our flank had opened."

HEAVY LOSSES FOR GERMANS.

Petrograd, March 9.—"The Germans have suffered heavy losses from Grodno (northern Russian Poland) by the necessity of employing their armies for other operations," says a press bureau statement. "As a matter of fact, the Germans retreated under our continuous pressure."

The statement continues:

"When our troops had captured Height No. 103, commanding the entire Grodno section, we were able to capture a thousand prisoners. This height was held by the Twenty-first Saxon army corps, the best of them all in the German host. From 12,000 to 15,000 men, judging from the dead abandoned."

FRENCH WIN IN HOT FIGHT.

Paris, March 9.—(Midnight.)—The following official communication was issued tonight:

"In Belgium, east of Stenstraete, we repulsed an attack.

"North of Arras, at Notre Dame de Lorette, the fighting went on all day without any change in the respective positions of the adversaries.

"In Champagne the fighting turned in our favor. Between Souain and Perthes, in the wood, where we gained a footing three days ago, we repulsed two counter-attacks and made some progress. We also made fresh progress in the woods east of the above places in the immediate neighborhood of Perthes. North of the same village, the enemy attacked and was repulsed.

"On the ridge northeast of Mesnil our gain of yesterday, which was more than 1,000 feet, has been increased to 600 feet. We carried a German redoubt and took a revolver-gun and three machine guns and made some prisoners.

"The enemy's organization, which was of an extremely strong character, included armored shelters supplied with revolver-guns and deep subterranean trenches.

"Finally, to the north of Mesnil we captured a few metres of trenches which we took Sunday and lost again Monday.

"In the Argonne between Four de Paris and Bolante we delivered an attack which made us masters of the first German line over a length of about 600 feet."

GERMANS TAKE FRENCH TRENCHES.

Berlin, March 9.—(Via London.)—The general staff today gave out this statement:

"In the western arena of the war: In the hills of Lorette our troops have captured two more trenches from the French. They took prisoner six officers and 250 men, and captured two machine guns and two small cannon.

"In the Champagne district the fighting at Souain has not yet come to an end. To the northeast of Le Mesnil the enemy, who had prepared to make an advance, was impeded by our artillery.

"In the eastern arena: East and south of Augustowo Russian attacks have failed with heavy losses to the enemy. At a point to the northeast of Ossowetz we have left 400 prisoners in our hands after an unsuccessful attack. To the northwest of Ostrolenka a battle has developed which is still going on. In engagements to the west and northwest of Przasnysz, which has ended favorably to us, we took 3,000 prisoners. Russian attacks to the north of Rawa and to northwest of Nowemiasto have proved ineffective. Seventeen hundred and fifty Russians were taken prisoners in these engagements."

MINOR GAINS BY BRITISH.

London, March 9.—Today's semi-weekly report from the headquarters of Sir John French says the situation on that part of the front held by the British forces is unchanged. In certain sections advantages have been gained.

The report says:

"The situation on our front is unchanged. The mastery over the enemy's snipers, reported in the previous communication as having been acquired in the neighborhood of La Bassee, has been maintained, and similar conditions have been produced in other portions of our front, notably in the region of Ypres.

"This result is primarily due to local individual initiative and has been materially assisted by successful mining operations. On the night of March 5-6 a mine was exploded under a German trench southeast of Ypres. Several of the enemy were killed. The mine crater was occupied immediately by our troops, and the enemy's trench on either side was rendered useless.

"On several occasions of our front the enemy's artillery has been more active than usual, but the effect has been slight."

SERIOUS BLOW DEALT TURKS.

Petrograd, March 9.—(Via London.) The Russian bombardment of Zunguldiak, on the south shore of the Black sea, and destruction of the docks there, announced by the Russian naval authorities yesterday, constitutes a serious blow to the Turkish fleet, it is from this point that the Turks hitherto have drawn their chief supply of coal for the navy.

It is reported semi-officially that in addition to silencing the batteries the Russian fleet destroyed the coal chutes, Benderegli, 10 miles west, another coaling point, also was damaged.

The only damage to the Russian fleet during the bombardment of Zungulduk was a slight injury to the cruiser Almaz, which was struck by a 6-inch shell. Six soldiers were wounded. The cruiser's machinery was not damaged.

With the evident intention of distracting the Russian advance into Turkish Armenia, from Batum to the valley of the Tchoruk, the Turks have started a movement in the vicinity of Khoi, in northwestern Persia, to the west of Tabriz. The Russian authorities attach little importance to this move, believing the melting snows and swollen rivers will impede the progress of the Turks and preclude the possibility of their turning the left flank of the Russian Caucasian army.

BRITISH BEATEN, TURKS REPORT.

Amsterdam, March 9.—(Via London.) An official statement from the Turkish war ministry, as received here today from Constantinople, says the British lost 400 men in the recent battle at the head of the Persian gulf. The statement follows:

"Three battalions of British infantry, with two quick-firing field guns, two mountain guns, one machine gun section and one squadron of cavalry attempted, on March 5, to attack our positions in the region of Ahwas (in Khuzistan). After a counter-attack by our troops the British fled in disorder to their ships, leaving 40 dead or wounded. Among the dead were one British major and four other officers.

"We captured three guns, 500 rifles, 200 horses and a great quantity of Red Cross material. Our losses were insignificant."

TURKS DRIVEN IN CAUCASUS.

Petrograd, March 9.—An official communication from the general staff of the Russian Caucasian army says:

"Our troops on March 7 occupied an important position in the region beyond the river Tohruk (Turkish Armenia), throwing back the Turks to the southwest and inflicting upon them serious losses.

"On the other front there were no engagements."

GERMANS KILLED BY EXPLOSION.

London, March 9.—The Central News correspondent at Amsterdam telegraphs that fourteen men were killed and seventy injured today by an explosion in a German arsenal at Antwerp.

RUSSIANS REPULSED, AUSTRIANS CLAIM.

Vienna, March 9.—(Via London, March 10, 1:05 a. m.)—The Austrian war office tonight made public the following official statement:

"On the front north of the Vistula, lively artillery and combat duels yesterday. South of Lopuszno (in the Kielce region) Russian attacks were easily repulsed. In the region of Gorlice an attack which we carried through resulted in the capture of additional prisoners. The positions won have been maintained despite several attempts of the enemy to regain them.

"Uninterrupted attacks are being made by the enemy on the Carpathian front, sometimes with strong and sometimes with weaker forces. Yesterday violent Russian attacks at several points which reached our entanglements were beaten back with heavy losses. In these battles more than 600 men remained in our hands as prisoners. Unfavorable weather conditions again are prevailing in the Carpathians. They demand extraordinary efforts from the army corps employed on this front.

"In continuous contact with the enemy our troops often are engaged day and night and several times have been outflanked, in the course of our attacking movements or stand upon the defensive generally against superior enemy forces. Considerable praise is due the behavior of our reserve troops as well as to every individual taking part in these battles."

GERMAN FAILURE VERY COSTLY.

London, March 10.—(3:30 a. m.)—The Times' Petrograd correspondent says of the reported withdrawal of the German forces in East Prussia and according to reduce the Ossowetz fortress:

"This retirement of Field Marshal von Hindenburg's armies in northern Poland means the loss of his whole effort in East Prussia. The German raid doubtless will be judged by impartial observers as one of the costliest of the German failures on the eastern front and nothing which will impression long ago formed here that the Germans are thinking of success on the western front, had staked everything on a chance of victory over the Russians, and by an invasion of Russia, then at least by barring a Russian advance toward Berlin."

NO LICENSE FORCES MAKE MARKED GAINS

St. Paul, Minn., March 9.—Reports tonight from half of the municipalities of Minnesota which voted last week on "wet" and "dry" issue indicated that no license forces had made marked gains in the latter column, while the larger cities the situation still was in doubt.

Of ninety towns that had reported late tonight, twenty-three former wet had voted against prohibition, and had gone over to the license column and in the remaining places there was no change.

FIVE MEN ON TRIAL ON LYNCHING CHARGE

Chester, Ill., March 9.—The trial of five men indicted in connection with the lynching of Albert Piazza, near Percy, Ill., on October 12, 1913, was begun here today. The men are Allen Bushnell, Sidney Bushnell, Charley Dilday, Thomas Browning and Edward Belmer.

Piazza was lynched after a fight between American and Italian coal miners in which two Americans and a brother of Piazza were killed.

GENERAL IS EXECUTED FOR DYNAMITING TOWN

Laredo, Texas, March 9.—General Gustavo Guardiola, former federal commander, convicted by a Villa court-martial of dynamiting Nuevo-Laredo, Mexico, was executed at 6 o'clock February 28, according to advices here tonight.

Federals evacuating Nuevo-Laredo April 24 last destroyed a number of buildings by dynamite and fired across the American border.

PANIC GROWING IN TURK CAPITAL

Refugees From the Dardanelles District Say Most of the Shops in Constantinople Are Closed.

London, March 10.—(2:06 a. m.)—"The panic in Constantinople has been increased by the stories told by large numbers of refugees arriving from the Dardanelles district," says The Daily Mail's Salonica correspondent. "Most of the shops in Constantinople are closed and the banks have transferred everything movable to Konieh, Asia Minor."

TURK VILLAGES FIRED BY SHELLS.

London, March 10.—(2:20 a. m.)—An Athens dispatch to The Daily Telegraph says the villages of Kilid Bahr and Kepedje, in the Dardanelles, have been burned as a result of the bombardment by the allied warships.

FLEET GATHERED FROM 4 QUARTERS.

Berlin, March 9.—(Via Amsterdam to London.)—In an article in The Vorwaerts, the former London correspondent of the newspaper, dealing with the Dardanelles attack, says:

"The composition of the British fleet appears to confirm the rumor that Great Britain has added two squadrons of new ships to her navy since the war began. The sending of the Queen Elizabeth type vessels to the Mediterrantean shows how little anxiety the British admiralty feels concerning its superiority in the North sea."

London, March 3.—The Times' naval correspondent says the position in the eastern sea has not been affected by the gathering of vessels in the Mediterranean, which have been collected from the four quarters of the globe.

Commenting on the Daily Telegraph's Athens correspondent, another warship of the Queen Elizabeth type has arrived on the scene.

GERMANY APOLOGIZES TO MINISTER VAN DYKE

Regret Expressed for Interruption of American Diplomat's Correspondence.

The Hague, March 9.—(Via London.) The German foreign office has sent, through American Ambassador Gerard, an expression of regret and an explanation to Henry Van Dyke, American minister to Holland and Luxemburg, for the interruption of Dr. Van Dyke's correspondence with Luxemburg.

The trouble is attributed in the explanation to a misunderstanding on the part of the military commandant at Treves, and it is stated that orders have been issued to prevent such an incident occurring again.

A dispatch from The Hague, February 11, said Dr. Van Dyke had appealed to Washington to protest to Germany against interference with his duties as minister to the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, the German military commander at Treves, he said, had refused to allow his letters to pass because they were sealed with the seal of the American legation.

The minister added that for several days he had been trying, through the mediation of the German minister at The Hague, to obtain an explanation from Berlin of the invasion of his diplomatic privileges, but that no answer had been received. The day following the receipt of Dr. Van Dyke's protest, Secretary Bryan announced that representations had been made to Germany.

BRITAIN TO TAKE OVER FACTORIES

Entire Engineering Trade to Be Organized Under One Management to Increase Out-of-War Munitions.

London, March 9.—The house of commons today gave the government authority to take over the control of the country's entire engineering trade and to place it under a combined management for the purpose of increasing the output of war munitions.

The defense of the realm act, passed at the outbreak of war, gave the government power to control works where war materials actually were being made. David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, on behalf of the government, today asked that the control of manufactories be extended to works capable of being used for that purpose.

This power was unanimously granted, although Andrew Bonar Law, opposition leader, described the measure as "probably the most drastic ever laid before parliament."

The step on the part of the government came as a complete surprise, although Mr. Lloyd-George in a speech at Bangor last week emphasized the importance of increasing the output of war munitions, which labor disputes had threatened to diminish. Now the workers in the engineering trade will be in the position of public servants and the government hopes this fact will impress them with the importance of keeping up the supplies. A business man will be given charge of the organization.

With the war area extending and the size of the army and navy constantly increasing, the government found that something must be done to keep the fighting branches supplied with arms and ammunition.

JAPAN PRESSES CHINA TO GRANT ALL DEMANDS

Threat Is Made to Use Force Unless the Chinese Government Complies.

Pekin, China, March 9.—M. Hioki, Japanese minister here, has delivered to the Chinese foreign minister a communication which China interprets as implying that unless Japan's recent demands are accepted by March 12, force would be employed.

The notice is not considered an ultimatum by the Chinese government, but Cheng-Hsiang, the foreign minister, after a series of conferences with President Yuan Shi Kai, has decided to expedite discussion of the demands with the Japanese legation and to agree quickly to those which China considers it possible to accept.

Answering the Japanese insistence for expedition, the Chinese representatives argued the impossibility of negotiating consequential changes hastily.

There is reason to belive that the foreign office has informed Japan that China will accede to and has conceded to the eleven demands which Japan originally presented to the powers, with their safeguarding modifications.

Today's conference resulted in no further definite progress, and it would appear that another deadlock has been reached. It was agreed today, however, to begin holding conferences three times a week instead of twice a week as in the past.

Japan Explains to Powers.

Tokio, March 9.—The Japanese government has received a friendly inquiry from the United States calling attention to the difference between the Japanese and Chinese versions of Japan's demands on China.

In reply, Japan has sent a supplementary note to the great powers summarizing the articles not included in her first statement on this subject. Japan points out that as these articles were in the nature of requests concerning old and long-pending questions between herself and China, she had not felt previously any obligation to impart them to the powers.

It generally is understood in Tokio that neither the United States nor any European powers has registered objection to the Japanese demands, and the impression prevails here that Japan is determined to bring about an acceptance of most if not all of them.

Nothing New, Says Wilson.

Washington, March 9.—President Wilson confined his statement on the far eastern situation today to saying there is nothing "representational" to Japan or China on Japan's demands. There was nothing new in the situation, he told callers.

For Land Banks.

Heavy Snow in Texas.

Hail to Spring! Birds Twittered And Sun Shone

It Was a Beautiful Day—But, Oh, the Ravages of the "Spring Fever."

When the twittering birds (oh, yes! they twittered yesterday) heralded the birth of Tuesday's dawn, and you turned in your bed to throw up the window shade for the purpose of ascertaining the complexion of the day, a radiant burst of sunshine inundated the room.

Whether you were poetic or not, it was impossible to restrain a rhapsody over the beauty of the season's first genuine spring day. If you were a tired business man, your mind ran at once to garden seeds and the achievements of Mr. Burbank. If you were a woman, your thoughts, perhaps, were of a sunbath in the forenoon and an inspection of your flower garden later; followed by spending the remainder of the afternoon mapping out spring housecleaning.

But as the day began to wane and dinner time drew nigh, the day began to unpleasantly assert itself in your temperament. Old spring fever clutched your soul, and restlessness bubbled and simmered within. The migratory bug dominated you to such an extent that you scorned the noontide trolley and walked home to lunch.

You were assailed with irresistible temptations to drop everything you were doing and do something else—anything from yielding wholesomefully to the sheer laziness that filled your being, to buying a one-way ticket back into the depths of Habersham county.

It was an exquisite day, but spring fever did its worst. Spring fever is fatal. Nobody is immune. Consequently—if you're that sort of man, which most of you are—it will be a pile of neglected work to face you from your desk this morning when you come downtown and face yesterday's dire fruits of spring-inspired indolence.

But the prospects for today are the same as Tuesday.

What's a discontented soul to do?

79,130,593 BUSHELS OF WHEAT IN CANADA

Ottawa, March 9.—A government inquiry, the results of which became public today, shows that the amount of wheat and of wheat equivalent in flour in Canada on February 15, last, was 79,130,593 bushels, distributed as follows.

Terminal elevators, 2,853,679 bushels; railway elevators, 1,213,952; other elevators, 26,776,246; flour mills, 6,160,540; in transit by rail, 12,571,876, and in farmers' hands, 29,554,000 bushels.

The result of the inquiry, it is stated, shows that the wheat supply should be amply sufficient to meet all requirements between now and the next harvest, for seeding this spring and for food during the next six months. It is estimated that 4,250,000 bushels will be required thus, leaving a balance of 35,750,000 bushels for export and reserve.

BULGARIA FACED BY THE QUESTION OF PEACE OR WAR

Course to Be Followed by Greece Not Yet Determined, Though the King Favors Neutral Policy.

ITALY IS ON THE EVE OF DECISIVE EVENTS

Premier Salandra Is Quoted as Saying Italians Will See That Destiny of Country Is Accomplished.

London, March 9.—The operations of the fleet bombarding the Dardanelles, now reported to have been reinforced by another battleship of the Queen Elizabeth class, and which is known to include more ships than mentioned in dispatches, continue to occupy the British people, who always take keen interest in the navy.

Reports that three of the forts guarding the narrows, one on the European and two on the Asiatic side, all armed with 14-inch guns, have been silenced, have increased the confidence of the British public that their warships will force the straits.

In addition to the military and economic importance the opening of the straits would have, the allies are said to believe it would have an immense effect not only on Turkey, but on Turkey's neighbors. Greece already is involved in a constitutional crisis over the Dardanelles and it was reported today that a similar crisis had arisen in Bulgaria, where it was said the premier was demanding intervention on the side of the allies in opposition to the wishes of King Ferdinand, who it is declared desires to remain neutral.

In Greece, Mr. Gounaris has undertaken to form a cabinet to succeed that of M. Venizelos and threatens to dissolve parliament if that body does not indorse his policy of friendly neutrality towards the allies. It is believed in London, however, that the people will force the Greek government to intervene and that Mr. Venizelos soon will be back in office.

Although there is no direct evidence that Italy will depart from her policy of armed neutrality, Rome dispatches express the belief that the nation is on the eve of "great and decisive events." Premier Salandra is quoted as saying the "Italians will see the destiny of their country accomplished."

CRISIS IN GREECE NOT YET SETTLED.

Athens, March 9.—(Via Paris.)—M. Gounaris, deputy for Patras, has consented at the request of King Constantine to undertake the task of forming a new cabinet. It is reported that M. Baltadjis, who was foreign minister in the Theotokis cabinet, has consented to take that portfolio under the leadership of M. Gounaris.

M. Gounaris will submit his list of ministers to the king tomorrow, it is understood, and obtain an agreement that the chamber shall be dissolved if the supporters of the ministry are in the minority, which is considered highly probable. The new premier is expected to favor continued neutrality.

Greece has been facing a cabinet crisis since the end of last week when Premier Venizelos, who favors participation in the war on the side of the allies, resigned. King Constantine desires that Greece remain neutral.

M. Zaimis was requested yesterday to form a cabinet, but he declined.

King Obeyed General Staff.

Paris, March 9.—M. Rhallys, former Greek prime minister, in an interview given the Athens correspondent of The Matin, says King Constantine acted on the advice of his general staff in opposing the policy of intervention proposed by M. Venizelos. The staff advised that an expedition against Constantinople would weaken the military situation on the Bulgarian frontier, which, in Athens, is regarded as dangerous in view of Bulgaria's doubtful attitude.

A Havas dispatch from Athens contains this quotation from The Patris, published in the Grecian capital:

"King Constantine wrote M. Venizelos, emphasizing the necessity for the convocation of the chamber of deputies to vote on urgent measures. M. Venizelos, in reply, gave his assurance that he would not insist on the chamber's dissolution if the new cabinet obtained a vote of confidence.

"Further than that, M. Venizelos said he would make no concessions. He declared he could not, as chief of the majority, consent that his party should support a policy that the outgoing cabinet had declared was disastrous for the country."

Views of Venizelos.

London, March 9.—The Times' Athens correspondent, discussing the resignation of Premier Venizelos and his cabinet, says:

"M. Venizelos was convinced that Greece, without running risks, would, by the disnatch of even a small military and naval force, have acquired the right to demand territorial compensations to complete the Greek national unity. Besides this, M. Venizelos wished to assure Greece of the entente's support in case she should be attacked by the two central powers."

BULGARIA FACING CABINET CRISIS.

Paris, March 9.—A ministerial crisis similar to that in Greece has developed in Bulgaria, according to news dispatches reaching Paris. Premier Radoslavoff is reported to have been overthrown by the influence of King Ferdinand and the followers of Dr. Ghenadieff, former foreign minister, because he desired to take immediate action against Turkey by occupying Adrianople. Radoslavoff's opponents are said to have declared that such a policy, which would have placed Bulgaria in opposition to Germany and Austria, would be too adventurous. The resignation of Premier Venizelos at Athens left Greece more isolated than before, and they argued if Bulgaria remained neutral she might hope for advantages other than those she would find in Thrace.

Although this information has not been definitely confirmed, it is generally believed in French official circles that Radoslavoff had resolved to march on Adrianople if Greece pronounced for the triple entente, and that Venizelos made such announcement at Athens when the question of intervention came up.

ITALY ON THE EVE OF GREAT EVENTS.

Rome, March 9.—(Via Paris.)—Premier Salandra had a long interview with Foreign Minister Sonnino and the council of ministers was in session. These and other indications lead to a widespread belief that Italy today is on the eve of great and decisive events.

One of the premier's remarks at Gaeta, where he went Sunday to dedicate a new military harbor, is attracting considerable attention. Referring to the kind of brown bread allowed in Italy after March 22, Signor Salandra said:

"This is a noble bread. Our soldiers will be the first to be sacrificed and Italians will see the destiny of their country accomplished."

General Morra, representing the army and navy, thanked the premier for his presence and concluded:

"If the leader call us to stay we will stay; if they tell us to march, we will march, always and everywhere in the name of the king of Italy."

These words created such enthusiasm that Premier Salandra embraced the general. The premier replied that although it might be "with anguish," all Italians would do their duty with God's help, under the king's orders, for the integrity of the fatherland.

Many of those present expressed the opinion that the words "with anguish" meant that negotiations to have the Italian national aspirations satisfied and the country's rights recognized had failed and that thus there must be recourse to other means to attain the object. Premier Salandra received an ovation.

The return of the premier to Rome was a triumphal procession. At Cesa one person cried "Viva neutrality." The premier leaned from the window of his car and retorted, "No, friends, cry with me 'Viva Italy.'"

GREECE LOSING HER OPPORTUNITY.

London, March 10.—(3:48 a. m.)—The Times, in an editorial today on the Greek crisis, says:

"Many events, more important to Greece and the other Balkan states than changes of ministries, are likely to happen within the month that will elapse before the chamber dissolves. The ministerial crisis in Greece is still, in some respects obscure, but its main cause is well known.

"The whole story of what took place at the meeting of former premiers remains to be disclosed, but all Athens knows that on Saturday morning, M. Venizelos visited the British legation, where the French and Russian ministers were present. That night the cabinet resigned.

"The obvious inference is that King Constantine disapproved the policy for which the cabinet had secured the assent of the council. Had Venizelos not carried the council with him he would hardly have wished to meet the representatives of the entente powers after the council meeting had risen.

"M. Venizelos is too sagacious and well-informed to entertain or encourage aspirations on the part of Greece for the possession of Constantinople, but he is permeated with a deep consciousness of the ties binding the Greeks to Byzantium and could hardly consent to stand idly by while strangers forced the Dardanelles and strange troops drove the Turks from the walls which defended Greek nationality, Greek faith and Greek learning for more than a thousand years."

"The article argues that the Greek king may not be unwilling, for personal reasons connected with his obligations to the German emperor, to see his own policy overborne by the natural demand for return to power of Venizelos, and says it is not likely that he will lightly risk the loss of national favor by permanently discarding the greatest statesman of modern Greece for adopting and adhering to a thoroughly national policy.

"At the same time," the editorial concludes, "while the advantages of the stop-gap ministry are clear from a family and personal standpoint its disadvantages from the loss of Greece's opportunity are equally clear."

GERMANY IS HOPING WAR MAY END IN DRAW

London, March 9.—Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent says the Berlin newspaper Vorwaerts reproduces an article from The Wochenschrift, a Berlin weekly, by Professor Paul Rohrbach, who, The Vorwaerts says, reflects the government's view.

The article recalls, says the correspondent, that Frederick the Great was the conqueror in the seven years' war although he failed to gain a square mile of territory and only held his own by straining every nerve.

"Professor Rohrbach," continues the correspondent, "considers that Germany likewise might regard herself victorious if, at the end of the struggle, her combined enemies were obliged to desist in their intention to destroy her military power and fall back upon the same condition as before the war, thus signifying their resources were exhausted more quickly than Germany's. In that case, without fighting the struggle out to a complete triumph, Germany might enter a new epoch with better prospects.

"Professor Rohrbach also develops the theory that a lasting peace with Russia is unthinkable and that, therefore, a second war is almost inevitable."

AMERICAN NAMES GIVEN TO STREETS OF LOUVAIN

London, March 9.—The decision of the municipal authorities of Louvain, Belgium, to give American names to streets is formally announced in a resolution of thanks adopted on Washington's birthday by the burgomaster and aldermen and sent to the American commission for relief in Belgium. The resolution concludes:

"The cradle of a university of five centuries' standing, and today herself partly in ruins, the city of Louvain cannot fail to associate with the memory of Washington, one of the greatest captains, the name of the learned professor whose admirable precepts and high political attainments, as also his firmness of character and dignity of life, all contributed to carry him successively to the presidency of Princeton university, the governorship of New Jersey, and finally the presidency of the United States.

"In order to perpetuate to future generations remembrances of these sentiments and our ardent gratitude, the burgomaster and alderman have decided this day that in the new parts of the city, as they rise out of the ruins, three streets, or squares, shall receive the illustrious names of President Wilson, Washington and American nation."

GOULDS LOSE CONTROL OF RAILWAY SYSTEMS

St. Louis, March 9.—Two important changes were made here today in the directorate of the Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain system.

They were the election of B. F. Bush, president of the system, to the chairmanship of the board of directors of the Missouri Pacific and of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern railways and the retirement of E. T. Jeffery, a long time associate of George J. Gould, from the directorate of the two roads.

Sixty-three per cent of the stock of the Missouri Pacific was voted. A majority of that amount was cast by a proxy committee represented by Otto H. Kahn, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and by Alexander J. Hemphill, of the Guarantee Trust company of New York.

That the committee was able to control the election was accepted as proof that George J. Gould and his associates no longer control the so-called Gould trans-continental system, comprising the Missouri Pacific, the Denver and Rio Grande and the Western Pacific railroads. Kingdon Gould and Frank J. Gould were also re-elected vice presidents of the roads.

The Missouri Pacific holds a large block of stock in the Rio Grande, which has a controlling interest in the Western Pacific. The new management has before it the duty of carrying for a $25,000,000 note issue of the Missouri Pacific which matures June 1, 1915.

DEFEATED NOMINEES GIVEN COLD COMFORT

Washington, March 9.—President Wilson, it became known tonight, has decided not to give recess appointments to a number of persons whose nominations for federal offices were rejected by the senate during the last session. This decision, however, does not apply to nominations on which the senate merely failed to act.

The president has written a letter to at least one appointee saying that while he may have the legal right to give recess appointments to men whose nominations have been rejected, he does not think such action in accord with the spirit of the law. Most of the rejected nominations were included in the group over which there were long disputes in the senate and which caused reports to go out of serious differences between the president and senators. They include:

W. N. Collins, postmaster at Kansas City, Mo.

Mrs. Marjorie J. Bloom, postmaster at Devils Lake, N. D.

Ewing C. Bland, United States marshal for the western district of Missouri.

A. H. Bule, postmaster at Ennis, Texas.

George Hampton, collector of internal revenue for the first district of New [illegible]

Tailored and Semi-Dress Hats at $10, $12.50 and $15 Will Be Shown Wednesday

We claim unusual artistic merit for these hats. Made in our own workrooms, they reproduce with remarkable accuracy Paris and New York fashions.

You see, our millinery section is in constant touch with Estelle Mershon, 20 East 46th St., New York.

As soon as that shop, or any other New York shop, for that matter, has a word from Paris, or creates a new note in millinery, it is but a matter of hours before we are given the details, and skillful, artistic fingers in our own workrooms are busy developing for Atlanta women the styles that Paris and New York are enjoying.

All of which is by way of explaining why Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. millinery is a bit different from the usual.

And these hats we shall show today for the first time—at $10.00, $12.50 and $15.00. They are exclusively charming affairs, as fresh as the sunlight, as smart as the fashions for spring have brought—and yet, because they are the work of our own hands, far less expensive than their beauty would imply.

A Sandwich Tray of Sheffield Plate A Special Value at $2.38

The spring stocks of Sheffield plate are ready.

It is a display marked by two notable features—the novelty of the pieces and patterns, the unusually low prices.

Perhaps foremost of all must be put this nine-inch sandwich tray, in its neat "punch work" design. At $2.38 it is far and away a better thing than we have ever offered. There is a little glass dish, with Sheffield plate top, that may be bought to go with it—this converts the tray into a cheese and cracker dish—it is $1.75.

Other novelties are double vegetable dishes, casseroles, trays, platters, baskets and the like.

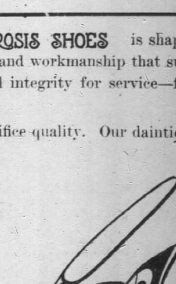
The basis of SOROSIS SHOES is shapeliness—materials and workmanship that sustain their original integrity for service—for durability.

We never sacrifice quality. Our daintiest creations have something more than beauty to inspire your buying thought.

Some of the SOROSIS SLIPPERS look as fragile as a flower—but they are hardy in wear.

That's a peculiarity of SOROSIS genius—a seeming of delicacy—a reality of strength.

The combination puts SOROSIS SHOES where they belong—at the top.



And today we have ready the new pumps—correct for spring—at $4.00, $5.00 and $6.00.

"ROTARIAN" ISSUES A SPECIAL EDITION ON CITY OF ATLANTA

The regular March issue of the Rotarian has just reached the city. This is called "The Atlanta Number," and is devoted largely to a description of the city, its points of interest, commercial standing and business activities. It is attractively illustrated. This is the official organ of the International Association of Rotary Clubs and has a circulation of 16,000.

On the front cover appears a bird's-eye view of Peachtree street from the viaduct to the Candler building. A number of the more prominent office buildings are shown. In the foreground the peace monument is produced with striking effect.

The chamber of commerce have used the inside of the front cover with an article entitled, "Why is Atlanta?" The frontispiece is one of a busy street scene looking up Broad street from Marietta street.

The leading article gives the history of the city from the war period up to the present time.

A number of the local Rotarians also contribute articles of both practical and historical value, among them Ivan E. Allen, president of the Atlanta Convention bureau; Mr. Preston S. Arkwright and H. G. Hastings.

The credit for this "Atlanta Number" of the Rotarian is due largely to the efforts of A. S. Adams, president, and to L. D. Hicks, secretary, of the local Rotary club.

Invitations were given the 1916 convention through the three delegates, representing the local chapter, by Governor John M. Slaton, Mayor James G. Woodward and the chamber of commerce.

The 1915 convention was held in Cincinnati. The vote was cast in favor of Atlanta last Saturday.

MARION HOWARD TAKES CHARGE OF GEORGIA CENSUS

The work of making a census of Georgia's manufacturing industries, which was begun this week by Director of the Census William J. Harris, was on Tuesday placed by him in the charge of sMrion C. Howard, brother to Congressman William Schley Howard, and is now well under way.

Mr. Howard is a former Atlanta boy, and has a large number of friends in all parts of the state who will be glad to renew his acquaintance. Mr. Howard will travel over most of the state, but will make the Kimball house his headquarters.

"The census of Georgia's manufactories," said Mr. Howard, "is a very important piece of work to Georgia and we hope to have the full and hearty cooperation of the manufacturers in this work.

"The report of the kind and number of the manufactories in Georgia, together with the work they are doing, will do a great deal to show the people in other parts of the country what the south is doing. It will be a veritable eye-opener and, I believe, will result in money coming to Georgia from other sections of the country.

"Our report will be thorough-going and authentic. All information regarding individual businesses obtained by us will, of course, be held in confidence, in compliance with the oath which we are required to take, and to which there is a penalty of imprisonment attached for violation."

"Progressive Matrimony" was the game played, Mrs. W. A. McElroy winning the top score, a picture, which was presented to the bride, and Miss Laura Rosenberger the consolation.

An interesting feature of the afternoon was a miscellaneous shower tendered Miss Gaines. She wore a very becoming gown of green silk trimmed with lace.

Among those present were:

Misses Annie Taylor, Miss Maude Moser, Miss Mary Candler, Miss Laura Rosenberger, Miss Aline McLean, Miss Lola Woodliffe, Miss Margaret Greene, Miss Katie Tatum, Miss Irene Carson, Miss Margery Clegg, Miss Ruby Brewer, Miss Hattie Twitty, Miss Nelle Landrum, Mrs. L. C. Butler, Mrs. W. A. McElroy, Mrs. Annie Reynolds, Mrs. A. R. Mayfield and Mrs. Karl Yancey.

For Mrs. Chandler.

FAVOR GUINN'S PLAN.

Resolutions Adopted by East Atlanta Improvement Club.

After hearing Major R. J. Guinn, president of the city board of education, state his arguments in favor of a double session in the Atlanta public schools, the East Atlanta improvement club, at a meeting last night, adopted resolutions indorsing the plans of Major Guinn relative to the Atlanta schools.

Major Guinn said although he is fully convinced of the necessity for double sessions, he will not, as a member of the board of education, vote to establish the plan in any school until the parents of that school have requested the board to do so.

The resolutions adopted are as follows:

"Whereas, we have heard Major R. J. Guinn, president of the board of education, outline in a clear and impressive manner the needs of the public schools of Atlanta, and the plans of the board for their betterment; and believing that the changes and reforms advocated by Major Guinn are much needed and would be a great step in the advancement of education in Atlanta; therefore, be it

"Resolved, that we, citizens of East Atlanta and patrons of the East Atlanta school, in meeting assembled, do hereby indorse and approve the present plans and activities of Major Guinn and the board of education for the improvement of the schools of Atlanta; and, be it further

"Resolved, that we request the board of education to have plans and specifications prepared for the erection of a new school building in East Atlanta on the lot now held for that purpose by the city, with ample facilities for the manual training department as outlined by Major Guinn, and that work be commenced on said school building at once, especially in view of the fact that the city of Atlanta now has on hand for that purpose only funds to the extent of $15,196.91."

Like An Endless Chain

The dollars of the Consuming Public, when Home Industries are patronized, go round and round—first to the retailer—from the retailer to the jobber and wholesaler—from the jobber and wholesaler to the manufacturer—then from the manufacturer back to the Consuming Public again for raw material and for labor.

The more dollars spent for home-made goods—the more home labor needed to manufacture these goods. The more labor used, the larger the manufacturers' pay rolls, which means more houses rented—more money to spend with the retailers. Thus it goes—ad infinitum.

It's up to you, Mr. and Mrs. Southern Consumer, to give your aid in making more labor for Southern people by patronizing Southern Enterprises. Call for goods bearing the trademarks here shown. If your dealer hasn't got them, then—It's up to you, Mr. Dealer, to supply your customers with what they want. If you have followed out our line of reasoning, you can readily see where you are to be benefited if a number of home industries—Commercial Neighbors almost at your elbow—can work more men and women and thus pour back more money into your home section.

These manufacturers make as GOOD GOODS as can be produced. It is to their interest to do so. This idea of patronizing them because they are HOME MANUFACTURERS wouldn't be worth a moment's advocacy, if that was all. But it isn't. They are not asking you to show your loyalty to HOME PEOPLE merely for the sake of being loyal. But they do feel that, all things being equal, their goods being as GOOD as any and BETTER than many—with prices no higher—then, you should be loyal enough to HOME ENTERPRISES to patronize them; and materially help yourself. That keeps our dollars doing duty all the time.

STONE'S WRAPPED CAKES

Did you ever wear "Red Seal" Shoes? "Yes?" Then, we are not after you, because with "Red Seal" Shoes, "once a wearer, always a wearer." But "No?"—then, the next time you need a pair of shoes, ask your shoe man for a pair of "Red Seals"—insist upon it. Remind him that they're made at home—right here in the South—where the J. K. Orr Shoe Company gives employment to hundreds of people, and tell your shoe man if the shoes are as good as the manufacturers claim, you feel it your duty to patronize them. The Orr Company have no fear that you will be the least bit disappointed. It knows its goods—and stands behind them.

FRANK E. BLOCK CO.

The same argument is true in the case of "Aragon" Shirts, Pants and Overalls. The A. M. Robinson Co. employ hundreds of women in its manufacturing plants. You men—you wear these things. There are none better than the "Aragon" brands. Treat yourself fairly—call for these brands—and make more work for men and women. And you women—insist upon HOME-MADE Biscuits and Crackers. The "Kennesaw" kind, made by Frank E. Block Co., are the peer of any. And when you want home-made Cake, "with the trouble left out," call for Stone's Wrapped Cakes—baked in a model, sanitary bakery.

A. M. ROBINSON CO.

Nearly everybody knows of the superiority of "Capitola" Flour—it's a household word. It's HOME-MADE—right here in our midst—by the Atlanta Milling Co., who also make the celebrated "Miss Dixie" Self-Rising Flour. If you want the best—insist that your grocer give you flour ground here at home. There's no need, either, for your grocer to send your money away off yonder several hundred miles for choice Ham or other Cured Meats. "Cornfield" products are the best and sweetest on the market. You ought to be proud of the White Provision Co.—they're the packers—and they're home folks. Now, what are you going to do about it?

The list gives the names of dairymen who sell their own milk. The health department has received complaints from doctors and consumers who engage milk or cream from dairymen who have made a good score, but who do not produce enough milk or cream to supply all who order their milk.

To supply these additional customers many dairymen have been buying milk or cream without notifying their customers that the milk did not come from their own dairy. All such dairymen will be listed under the head of "Milk Dealers," and the report of these dairies will be published next week.

This explanation is given so that the customers can understand why the names of other dairymen have been omitted from this list.

The following is an explanation of the requirements of tests and explains itself:

Butter Fats—The law requires that the milk contain as much as 3.6 per cent butter fats. Rich, clean milk will contain as high as 5 and 6 per cent.

Bacteria—Fresh, clean milk will contain less than 10,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter. The law allows as many as 100,000 per cubic centimeter. If it contains more than 100,000 there has been some carelessness somewhere in handling the milk.

Temperature—Milk should be kept below a temperature of 50 degrees, or it may become dangerous. The consumer should test his milk with a thermometer. The law requires that all milk be delivered at a temperature below 55 degrees.

The accompanying list gives the section of the city in which each dairyman delivers, and the consumer can easily tell which man is producing the best milk in the section of the city.

Milk with a high bacterial count should be especially avoided.

Emergency Association Will Hold General Meeting Today

Mrs. Beaumont Davison, president of the Emergency Association for Unemployed Women, calls a meeting of the officers, the advisory board, all the committees and all those interested in the movement the organization represents for this morning at 11 o'clock in the basement of Carnegie library.

A report will be made of the two days' accomplishment in the workroom which has been opened in the Parish house of St. Philip's Cathedral, where women have been given work and others will be given work when machines are secured.

Mrs. William H. Kiser will report on the moving exhibits of woman's handiwork which were held Monday and Tuesday at the Georgian Terrace, and will hold today and tomorrow at the Piedmont hotel. Mrs. M. P. Coolidge will report on the success of the sale for the first two days; also the kind of work which was most in demand.

Mrs. Emily McDougald will make an interesting report, and Mrs. W. W. Brooks, chairman of the committee to create work, will explain the requirements of that committee and name the members this morning.

The office of the Emergency association has its headquarters for the present at the store, 19 Auburn avenue, in the Chamber of Commerce building. Miss Susan McClellan, secretary.

Mrs. Davison requests that all members of the association who find places for unemployed women will please report the same to the office of the association, so that a record may be kept. It is necessary to do this in order to test the value of the movement and in order that the association may keep its record, being responsible where it should be. The names and addresses of the women who have work which they wish done should be given at the office of the association, where they will be turned over to the chairman of the work committee, Mrs. W. W. Brooks. Applicants for work should register there also, so that systematically the demand and employee may be brought together, thus avoiding the confusion that would ensue if the matter were managed from other or individual centers.

The exhibit at the Piedmont hotel will open at 10 o'clock this morning. Any woman who needs to dispose of any handiwork she may have on hand may bring it to the Piedmont hotel between 9:30 and 10 o'clock this morning where it will be looked after today and tomorrow. Mrs. James Hickey and a party of her friends will have charge of the sale today, also Mrs. W. H. Kiser and her committee.

Jackson, Ga., March 9.—(Special.)—The case of Jasper county against Butts county, which is a suit to settle the boundary line between the two counties, will be heard at McDonough during the spring term of superior court, which convenes there the third Monday in April. Because certain points in this litigation have never been passed on by the courts it is said, this promises to develop into one of the most interesting suits heard in Georgia in several years.

Delegations of various church, temperance and civic societies of Gwinnett are expected to rally at the meetings on Thursday, when Dr. Caroline Geiselt, of the Battle Creek, Mich., sanitarium and noted woman physician of the country, will be a speaker.

Hon. J. Frank Hanly, former governor of Indiana and regarded as the peer of any temperance orator in America, comes at the head of the third group of the squadron for the meetings on Friday and in a recent statement declared that the Flying Squadron is not affiliated with any existing temperance organization.

AT THE THEATERS

Miss Billie Burke.

(At the Atlanta.)

This afternoon and the charming and altogether fetching Miss Billie Burke will be seen in a matinee performance of her fine comedy, "Jerry," which has made the most distinct hit of any comedy of the season. Miss Burke is so refreshing in her work, and the play is so full of laughs and epigrams, that missing it will be missing a rare treat. The company in support of the star has won wide admiration and the entire performance is one which is most distinctive. The last performance of the play will be given tonight. It is surely well worth seeing, as all the critics and the public declared.

(At the Atlanta.)

The George Evans "Honey Boy" Minstrels will begin their engagement at the Atlanta Thursday night. Seats are now selling for the stay, which will be three nights and Saturday matinee. The "Honey Boy" Minstrels this season are immense, and even without the star, they have made a distinct hit where they have appeared. The show has all the old-time charm, with a number of newer and brighter black-face comedians and dancers. The show is given in three parts, and each is full of fun and laughter, as well as good singing and dancing. All the big features which have made the "Honey Boys" so popular are retained.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

There's a good bill of vaudeville at the Forsyth this week. Everybody says so. It is a splendid combination of variety talent; there is really not a weak feature.

Frank Lalor, the eminent musical comedy comedian, is making his first local appearance in vaudeville. He has been here before, and was "the whole show" at two dollars a seat. Dr. Carl Herrman, the master electrician, is showing some wonderful stunts in handling "chained lightning," and furnishing a lot of fun with his experiments on the committee. "Silvera," the famous clown, offers an entertaining act in pantomime. The Donedins are pleasing in bicycle and high wire work. Raymond and Helder make good in songs and dances. Wilkie Weston pleases in songs and recitations, and the big bill of the bill is the offering of Adelaide Hughes and Jordon.

Next week's headliners will be Adelaide and Hughes, foremost of the modern society dancers.

Submarine Pictures.

(At the Lyric.)

The sea has not yet given up its dead, but it has been compelled to give up many of its secrets to the Williamson brothers. By means of the Williamson collapsible submarine tube they have been able to descend from 50 to 100 feet below the surface of the ocean and photograph the strange scenery and stranger animal life to be found there. The results of their subaqueous motion picture expeditions can be seen at the Lyric.

Universal Film company presents the Williamson submarine motion pictures, the most novel, picturesque and thrilling film ever screened, at daily matinee and evening exhibitions.

"Cameo Kirby."

(At the Montgomery.)

"Cameo Kirby," in which Dustin Farnum makes his third screen appearance under the Jesse L. Lasky management, will be the bill at the Montgomery today and Thursday.

In "Cameo Kirby," Mr. Farnum plays the part of a southern "blood" of the old antebellum days, filled with all the chivalrous spirit of that day, and is lovable in his recklessness.

One of the many unique scenes in the picture is the race between two old-time river steamers on the Mississippi. Two of the leading characters in the play make important wagers on the outcome of the race, which recalls the fact that in the early days trials of speed between river boats were considered sporting events by the gentlemen of the south.

AUSTELL WINS SUIT.

Held Not Liable for Injuries Received by Boy.

The case of John D. Fretwell against Alfred Austell, which was an action for $10,000 damages, in Fulton superior court, for injuries alleged to have been inflicted on plaintiff's minor son, was terminated in Fulton superior court on yesterday by a verdict in favor of the defendant.

Plaintiff alleged that on May 24, 1913, defendant's chauffeur drove his automobile over plaintiff's son at the corner of Gordon and Lee streets, in West End, causing serious and permanent injuries to his head, in addition to severe internal injuries.

The defendant introduced testimony in support of his contention that the chauffeur was guilty of no negligence, and that the accident resulted from the negligence of the boy who was injured.

The case was tried once before in Fulton superior court and resulted in a mistrial.

The plaintiff was represented by J. Caleb Clarke, and the defendant by Anderson & Rountree.

Men Pay Homage to Mother's Friend

"I am not surprised to observe the number of men who come into the store to purchase 'Mother's Friend,'" remarked a leading druggist. It is a happy thought to send hubby to the drug store. "Mother's Friend" is applied externally over the abdominal muscles. It is a gentle, soothing lubricant, penetrates to the fine network of nerves beneath the skin and has a marked tendency to relieve the muscular strain to which these broad, flat abdominal muscles are subjected. The cords, tendons and ligaments are thus permitted to stretch without the corresponding surface strain so often found during the period of expectation. This in part accounts for the entire absence, in many cases reported, of nausea, morning sickness and other distress, such as laceration of the epidermis so often the case when this gentle form of lubrication is neglected.

"Mother's Friend" has been highly recommended by a host of women who know from experience and by men who know from observation. Write Bradfield Regulator Co., 308 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and we will send you a valuable little book to expectant mothers.

BROUGHT BACK NATURAL HEALTH

The Facts About an Interesting Case of Serious Female Trouble Benefited by the Use of Cardui.

Walnut Cove, N. C.—Mrs. E. A. Rothrock, of this town, says: "About two years ago I was in very bad health for three or four months.

At this time I had a serious female trouble, which lasted severely for nine weeks. I got awfully weak and could scarcely go. and my doctor said I ought to be in bed.

My two sisters, who had used Cardui with good results, and who now use it as a tonic, recommended it highly to me, saying it is a fine medicine.

I felt if I lived I must have something to help me, and as other medicines had failed to relieve me, I thought I would try Cardui, the woman's tonic. At this time I was almost skin and bones.

I seemed to improve after the use of the second bottle of Cardui. The trouble stopped, I suffered no pain, and began to get back my strength and health. I took five more bottles and got back my natural state of health, also my flesh, and could do my work easily.

This spring I was run down in health, had over-worked myself, I took nearly three bottles of Cardui, as a tonic, and it brought me back to my natural state of health.

Last week I put up 75 jars of fruit, which I could not have done before taking Cardui. I am glad I heard of it, and I hope other women will, too." Your case may not be as bad as the above, but even if only a mild case, we suggest that you begin today to try Cardui, the woman's tonic.

Hundreds of Atlanta "Newsies" To Hear Dr. Chapman Tonight

The special services for old folks at the Chapman-Alexander revival, which was postponed from last Friday on account of bad weather, will be held Thursday afternoon of this week at 3 p. m.

All persons who volunteered automobiles for last Friday are requested to have them on hand this Thursday at 2 p. m. in front of the tabernacle on Peachtree street.

Arrangements have been perfected to have the newsboys of the city attend the meeting at the tabernacle tonight. The circulation managers of each of the local papers are working in conjunction with Mr. Ralph C. Norton to make this feature of tonight's services even more successful than the one of two weeks ago. On that occasion a great number of the city's newsboys were in attendance, and were thoroughly interested. They seem eager to attend tonight's meeting. A number of special features have been arranged for them, and Dr. Chapman will address them briefly on a subject that is sure to hold their attention.

The boys will assemble in front of their respective offices and start marching promptly at 7:15. They will join forces at the corner of Broad and Marietta streets and proceeded by a band, will march together to the tabernacle where a block of seats will be reserved for them in front of the platform. Definite arrangements had not been perfected last night for the band, but it was thought the one of the Georgia Military Institute would be secured.

A number of beautiful testaments have just reached Dr. Chapman from London. These will be given to such of the boys as are best able to perform certain duties which will be assigned to them. What these duties would consist of Mr. Norton would not disclose last night. However, it is probable they will be given some memory test, or sing some portion of a song that has been specially prepared for them. All the newsboys of the city are urged to be present, and doubtless, a larger number will be present than attended the last meeting.

"If Sanatogen helped them that much—!"

MANY a man before you, as he read those sincere, enthusiastic letters written by such men as Gilbert Parker, John Burroughs and Col. Watterson, has wondered, just as you are wondering, "Why would it help me, too?"

And so, though half-skeptical and deeply discouraged at his failure to get relief from "bracers" and "liquid tonics," he has turned to Sanatogen at last and found that it does help.

He has found that Sanatogen, supplying nourishment to the starved cells, rebuilds—makes good the overdrafts of nervous energy—reinvigorates the run-down system, and recalls both a keener appetite, and more refreshing sleep.

Grand Prize, International Cong ss of Medicine, London, 1913

And the experience of those men has answered that half-formed query in your mind—just as it is answered by the experience of the more than 21,000 physicians who have written such enthusiastic letters in praise of Sanatogen.

And so after all it becomes a matter, not of "Will Sanatogen help me?" but of when will you give yourself that help?

Sanatogen is sold by good druggists everywhere, in three sizes, from $1 up.

Arnold Bennett, the famous novelist, writes: "The tonic effect of Sanatogen on me is simply wonderful."

Sir Gilbert Parker, M.P., the eminent novelist-statesman, writes from London: "Sanatogen is to my mind a true food-tonic, feeding the nerves, increasing the energy and giving fresh vigor to the overworked body and mind."

Mule's Hot Breath on Harvey Hill's Neck Warns Him of Danger

When Harvey Hill, the well-known attorney, felt the breath of a mule on the back of his neck he was saved from being seriously injured, according to his testimony in the police court Tuesday afternoon when he testified against Alburtus Avery, a negro driver of an ice wagon.

Mr. Hill stated to the recorder that while he was standing at the intersection of Pryor street and Edgewood avenue Monday he suddenly felt the hot breath of a mule on the back of his neck and he turned just in time to save himself from being run over by a wagon. He was at the time looking at the automobile of a friend.

He told the recorder that he had no desire to prosecute the negro, but he wanted an example made of careless negro drivers.

The negro was fined $6.75, and both Mr. Hill and the back of his neck were vindicated.

"NO BILL" RETURNED AGAINST DITTLER

The prosecution of Emil Dittler, driver of the motor car which collided with the hose truck of No. 9 engine company a few weeks ago, killing one fireman and injuring several, came to an abrupt end yesterday, when the grand jury returned a "no bill" in the charge of involuntary manslaughter, for which he had been bound over to the state courts.

Eleven members of the jury voted for a true bill against Dittler, while one voted for a "no bill." Through Foreman Frank P. Rice, the body ask instructions from Judge Ben Hill. He decided that, inasmuch as the jury stood immovably 11-to-1, the law maintained that a "no bill" be returned.

Dittler had been bound over in police court.

NEGROES OF CITY PLAN BIG REVIVAL

It was the unanimous opinion of those gathered at the noon-day prayer-meeting at the First Congregational church, colored, yesterday morning, that the time was ripe for a union revival among the colored people of Atlanta. One of the most forceful of the talks was made by Rev. L. H. King, of the Central Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, who held that one of the reasons why such a revival is needed is to bring together the various denominations into helpful relations.

The meeting was led by Rev. Dr. Burns, of the Central Methodist Episcopal church. The meeting today will be led by Secretary W. J. Trent, of the Y. M. C. A.

EIGHTH VICTIM DIES IN BRUNSWICK TRAGEDY

Gunner Tolnas, Bank Clerk, Dies of Wounds Inflicted by Monroe Phillips.

Brunswick, Ga., March 9.—Gunner Tolnas, a bank clerk, among those shot by Monroe Phillips, who ran amuck in the business district here last Saturday, died of his wounds today. Tolnas' death was the eighth in connection with the tragedy. Phillips was shot down by a citizen after he had killed five persons and wounded thirty-two others.

Tolnas, 21 years of age, was collector for the Brunswick Bank and Trust company. He was across the street Saturday morning when Monroe Phillips was on his rampage, and was struck as he was making for the drug store of Hatcher & Josy. He was hit by five buckshot and fell to the ground right under the feet of L. J. Leavy, who was wounded by the same load. Tolnas was one of the most popular young men in the city. His younger brother, Paul, only a short time ago, lost his life in an accident here at the plant of the Yaryan Naval Stores company.

All except five of those wounded in Saturday's tragedy are now able to be out, and these five are reported much improved.

Monroe Phillips was buried here this morning.

VALUABLE TESTIMONY.

S. H. Hardwick presents today some interesting testimony as regards the allegation that the interstate commerce commission forced the eastern railroads into the promulgation of the obnoxious "split-ticket" regulation.

It will be recalled that speaking for the Baltimore and Ohio and the Pennsylvania railroads, Vice President Dixon, of the latter, recently said to The Constitution that the railroads operating between New York and Washington issued the order withdrawing the conveniences heretofore accorded with split transportation because the commission had ruled that way. In support of this position the eastern railroads cited some ancient rulings of the interstate commerce commission as of date June, 1909, and even the rulings so cited were given with the omission of salient features.

Mr. Hardwick shows that as late as March 11, 1912, the interstate commerce commission, by unanimous decision, gave the railroads the right to extend identically the same privileges that they now want to take away in order that they might comply with the rulings of the commission in 1909. The strange part of it is that even the rulings they invoke were issued six years before they sought to discontinue the conveniences which have been accorded for more than thirty years. Why, therefore, their suddenly manifested eagerness now to comply with the alleged ruling of six years ago?

If the eastern railroads wish to be in harmony with the attitude of the commission, the ruling of 1912 gives them plain sailing, for they are now in the attitude of endeavoring to force the commission to revoke its ruling which permits the grant of the same conveniences that they now seek to discontinue.

THE RURAL ROUTES.

The rural free delivery service faces a crisis. Under the regime of strict economy the postoffice department has inaugurated, many rural free delivery routes will be eliminated. The routes that are strong and self-sustaining are the ones that will stand the best chance for surviving. This information is contained in the following extract from a letter to Postmaster General Burleson, from Chairman Moon, of the house committee on postoffices and post roads:

"The law forbids that you create any deficiency in the postoffice department in any of its branches, and, while the temptation is great, it is the law, and it ought to be obeyed. You should put use for any purpose any more money that the law provides for it. I know that this will prevent you from appointing additional clerks, from the promotion of carriers, and from giving compensation to many of the supervisory officials. I know it will be necessary for you to reduce the number of rural routes. In other words, you will be hampered next year in the administration of the service. I trust, however, that when you come to the reduction of the number of rural routes you will make the reduction as light as possible, and that you will first equalize the conditions in reference to the routes. I know it will be a source of regret to you that this valuable service in many respects will have to be eliminated and that consequences that will not be satisfactory, possibly, to the people will follow, but that is no fault of yours."

The routes that are not liberally supported by their patrons will be the first—to be lopped off!

It is needless to dwell upon what a rural free delivery route means or ought to mean to any community. It represents all the difference between growth and stagnation, between connection with and isolation from civilization; between the monotony which is one of the enemies to life on the farm, and the lightening of that monotony.

From now on the fate of hundreds of rural free delivery routes will depend almost altogether on the activity of their patrons, not, of course, forgetting the carrier, who loses his job with the abolition of the route.

The Constitution cannot believe that any community will confess itself so reactionary and backward as to become indifferent to the daily arrival of mail at its door, and thereby forfeit this great privilege.

That is what such indifference means. It is the route that shows appreciation of the services rendered that, under the new regime, will survive; the others will go on the chopping block.

THE AUTO LICENSE LAW.

In a communication published elsewhere Harry H. Stone, treasurer of the board of trustees of Emory college, makes some pertinent remarks regarding the enforcement of law in general and of the automobile license law in particular. Regarding general law enforcement, the arguments of Mr. Stone are interesting from the abstract and moral standpoint.

There is an intensely practical side regarding his plea for the enforcement of the auto license law, which Secretary of State Cook is now striving to press on all the counties.

It is probable that half the revenue from this source is paid into the state treasury by Fulton county. But Fulton by no means gets one-half back for use on its roads. Its contribution is lumped along with the contributions of other counties that observe the law and pro-rated among the counties according to road mileage. Fulton, being geographically a small county, gets back from the pot only a fractional part of the sum it puts in. The rest goes to improving roads in other counties—many of them which now see fit not to observe the law.

So far, so good. But this will be the last year Fulton will observe the law if the other counties benefiting from Fulton's payment of the license tax hold themselves at liberty to evade it, and if that evasion is sustained.

In other words, if the law becomes a dead letter—that lets Fulton, as well as the other counties, out!

WARNING CARRANZA.

The stiff note to General Carranza from this government, warning him that he must change the treatment accorded foreigners in Mexico, is likely to have the desired effect. A fleet of American warships standing off Vera Cruz is a tolerably fair antidote for the political egotism from which Carranza suffers. He has seen Americans take charge of Mexico's chief seaport before, and if he has the intelligence with which he is credited he will mend his ways to accord with the situation.

Carranza, undoubtedly, has been making the mistake of which any other short-sighted man in his position would be guilty. For the moment the faction of which he is the nominal head appears to be in the ascendant in Mexico. That fact has gone to his head, as has the temporary subsidence of hurts.

"There's not the reason why—
To whom it is to die."

Lynch law—mob violence—a hundred evils—can never be controlled as long as the individual may feel free to substitute his own judgment, or, in the case of his lack of judgment, for the written laws of the commonwealth.

It is incumbent upon every parent, every teacher, every social leader to instill into the minds and hearts of every child, of every citizen, a love of law for law's sake.

Should this idea once thoroughly grip the minds and consciences of our officials—state, county and municipal—what a great transformation there would be! No longer would the columns of our papers carry harrowing details of lynchings and mob rule—for sheriffs and other officials would defend their prisoners to the death; nor with mortifying accounts of courts-martial involving hundreds of citizens deliberately neglecting to enforce or to comply with a license law which appeals to them as "unjust" or "unconstitutional."

The laws would still be broken and payment of licenses would be evaded, but those who broke the laws would be rightly regarded and treated as lawbreakers and criminals, and those who evaded the payment of licenses would not be considered as law abiding or dependable citizens.

As long as the automobile license is on the statute books of Georgia it is the duty of every official concerned to enforce it, and of every citizen to stand by it.

The Breaking of the Ice

By William W. Rock.

Deep in a dark ravine a land-locked pool,
Its surface like the waters, was cool;
High in the heavens above, a murky sky,
With gray and angry cloud-wracks scudding by.

A gust of wind—a tiny rift of blue,
And one small, shimmering sun-ray glancing through,
Strikes to the still, cold heart of the ravine
Like spot-light on a pantomimic scene.
All in a trice
A fissure on the pool begins to grow,
And lo!
With the breaking of the ice.

A face of beauty far beyond the rule,
A glance of deep disdain, a greeting cool;
A feigning union, sleight-of-hand eye,
And clouds of cold reserve obscure the sky.
But see! A twinkle in those orbs of blue,
And one bright flash of humor dancing through,
Refreshing as a zephyr from the south;
Around the corners of a dimpled mouth
All in a trice
The glimmer of a smile begins to grow,
And lo!
With the breaking of the ice.

The Only Son.

O bitter wind toward the sunset blowing,
What of the tales tonight?
In yonder gray old hall where fires are glowing,
What ring of festal light?

In the great window as the day was dwindling
I saw an old man stand;
His head was proudly held and his eyes kindling,
But the list shook in his hand.

O wind of twilight, was there no word
Of sorrow,
No sound of joy or wail?
"A great fight and good death," he muttered;
"Trust him, he would not fail."

What of the chamber dark where she was lying,
For whom all life is done?
Within her heart she rocks a dead child crying:
"My son, my little son!"

BE CONSISTENT

By Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, D. D.

Consistency is a jewel, so they say, but also, it is too often a rare one. The lack of it kills influence. It is not what we say, but what we are that counts. When lives ring true they make such harmony that the world takes note of what we say.

There is no prevailing argument against consistency. The scoffer may answer an argument; a true life is beyond his power of attack. The world is waiting for consistency, and is never unmoved in its presence.

Be consistent in your home. Many a child has gone astray because of the lack of it, and many a man dates his downfall from the day when inconsistency harmed him.

Be consistent in your business. Apply the golden rule. Treat your employee as you wished to be treated when you were in a similar position. Serve your employer as you would like to be treated were you in his place.

Be consistent in your unbelief. Don't count a sneer an argument. Don't treat the Bible as you would scorn to treat a work on science or philosophy. Don't think that you have dismissed Christ because you have not accepted Him. He is still before you for consideration, and will be until the judgment.

Be consistent in your church. You cannot hide hypocrisy nor cover worldliness. The world estimates your worth and rarely makes a mistake. Be what you ought to be, what you desire to be, what you intend you should be. Be consistent. Confess your failure. Make the wrong of your life right. Keep your record clean.

Auto License Law Evasion Gets a Strong Scoring

Editor Constitution: Will you allow a word from a plain, private citizen suggested by some recent news items in your columns?

I do not believe in militarism, but I do believe in obedience to authority—a reverence of law for law's sake.

The individual can not, in the nature of things, decide whether a particular law is one to be obeyed or disregarded. Should such a course be allowed there would be no law—only anarchy would exist.

A seemingly growing tendency to assert this notion will slowly but surely undermine our social system—unless it be checked.

The child who, in the public school, seems to feel that he is called upon to obey only such precepts as he deems is best, and to neglect and despise such as do not appeal to him as suiting his convenience, or that his judgment may pronounce as unjust or uncalled for.

The citizen, the juror, the officer of the law, frequently views the laws of the commonwealth as binding upon him only as his convenience is suited or his judgment is satisfied.

A law should be respected because it is a law. There should be no dead letter laws. A law should either be enforced or it should be repealed. Otherwise a law is on the statute book every cent of the state's revenue and every particle of the state's authority and dignity should be back of it for its impartial and complete enforcement.

Should it be an unjust law, should it be an unconstitutional law there are courts to pass upon it, there are proper means for its repeal.

The individual as a citizen may contest the validity of a law before the courts; as a voter he may work for the repeal of any law he may deem unwise or unjust; but as a taxpayer, as a juror, he should by example and by precept stand firm for law and order by enforcing the law even though it hurts.

"There's not the reason why—
To whom it is to die."

Lynch law—mob violence—a hundred evils—can never be controlled as long as the individual may feel free to substitute his own judgment, or, in the case of his lack of judgment, for the written laws of the commonwealth.

It is incumbent upon every parent, every teacher, every social leader to instill into the minds and hearts of every child, of every citizen, a love of law for law's sake.

Hardwick Says That Interstate Commission Has Been Misquoted

Editor Constitution: Concerning the "split-ticket" controversy, the refuge which the trunk lines are endeavoring to take with reference to certain opinions delivered by the interstate commerce commission in certain cases, as referred to in the communications in The Constitution, will not be found by them to be substantially protective.

The situation is that each of these opinions quoted by the trunk lines were cases of certain peculiarities on account of which peculiarities surrounding those individual cases, the commission rendered certain opinions, but quite naturally these opinions are not quoted by the trunk lines in their entirety, but only such parts of opinions as the trunk lines elected and selected in their own opinion to cover their case.

Furthermore, these opinions thus quoted by the trunk lines and which appeared in The Constitution of the 4th inst., were all rendered in the month of June, 1909. A great forward movement has been made in all such matters since that year and the latest word of the interstate commerce commission in the matter of "split transportation" as general plans and covering all cases of all kinds coming under the control of the commission was issued by the commission March 11, 1912, opinion 1822, and is, therefore, the controlling one now in effect, and so far it is not only the latest word, having been issued, say three years ago, but this latest opinion was also issued by the commission to cover all cases of all kinds under the jurisdiction of the commission.

In that opinion, dated March 11, 1912, the commission stated specifically that it is lawful to continue the practice of exchanging tickets and commutation tickets with other tickets. In other words, the use of such "split tickets" is thus specifically declared by the commission to be lawful. It is lawful and proper, therefore, for carriers to proceed accordingly and this final opinion might not properly be compared with any fragmentary opinion previously issued and being set up as arguments, such as the trunk lines are seeking to make in their denfense at present.

Argument in the present matter being the protest of the board of trade of the city of Baltimore and other trade organizations is to be heard by the entire interstate commerce commission, sitting in full board in Washington on April 7, next, and at that time the whole situation will be covered and the commission will subsequently decide the whole matter again. Anyone who desires to be present at this hearing is not only entitled to do so, but he would be welcome.

It having been the practice of the Southern railway for many years to extend passengers the privileges of enjoying the facilities of a through journey in its entirety, on the presentation of issues of tickets which are valid and lawful for the whole journey for interstate journey under control of the interstate commerce commission, we would be regretful at this late date to make any change. Furthermore, there is absolutely nothing in the present inhibition of the trunk lines which will have the effect of conserving one penny of the trunk lines' revenue.

I have challenged the trunk lines to show in any way where their revenue is thus conserved.

Instead of revenues being conserved, I think the expense for handling the traffic would be increased with a net result of the revenues being thus actually diminished. If the passenger holds one, two, three or more pieces of valid transportation which have been sold under lawful tariffs under the jurisdiction of the commission, the carrier will serve them by allowing all of that transportation to be accepted for one through journey.

If only accepted in one part or several parts, this will cause duplication or multiplication of the transaction of checking of baggage and other needless accommodations.

Every time such a transaction occurs, there exists some opportunity for errors, either on the part of the passenger, the agent, or on the part of some employee or representative of the carrier. In other words, it is just as easy for the intrastate traveler to get baggage check at New York to write in the destination Atlanta as it is for them to write in the destination Washington.

If only a point or two is to be had in the through journey is made the destination, the passenger has to have other destinations supplied at that point, and the carrier has to rehandle the baggage and recheck in accordance with the further part of the acceptance.

It being a fact that these mileage books have been on sale in New York city for so many years, for the life of me I can see no complaint heretofore having been made by the trunk lines or anyone else, it seems to me that no complaint on their part exists, and I certainly hope that the interstate commission will decide in our favor and permit us to continue affording these privileges to through passengers as they have been interstate transportation which they may hold.

Seeing America First— New York's Skyline

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

When the American tourist has finished looking at the library of deceased notables in a European cathedral he climbs 465 steps upward through a dusty tunnel and takes a look at the world from the top window of a spire, 200 feet above the ground.

This is a great attraction in Europe and no cathedral would think of allowing visitors to attain this altitude in less than 25 cents admission. Outside the Alps and the Eiffel tower the churches have a monopoly of height in Europe as they have made big dividends on every spire constructed.

However, the American traveler need not repine if he is in doubt of the chance to scramble up 100 yards of precarious stairs and ladders this summer. He cannot see Paris from the spire of Notre Dame, but he can step into an elevator in any one of two dozen New York buildings and go twice as high for nothing.

New York has a dozen buildings which are higher than the Cologne spires which puncture the zenith more deeply than anything in Europe except the Eiffel tower. It has buildings 500 to 800 feet high, fitted up with all the comforts of home, including large easy chairs on the fortieth story and express elevators which make the entire trip in one minute without stopping even to whistle for signals. There are many remarkable views produced by man in various parts of the earth, the cost of reaching which varies from $200 to $3,000 for an American. But the most remarkable man-made view on earth can be obtained by expending the price of a ferry trip from Long Island to Hoboken, up North River. On this trip the tourist sees a five-mile mountain range built by the steel workers' and bricklayers' unions of America in the midst of which Singer Peak, 612 Woolworth, the Dent du Metropolitan and the Sierra de City Hall loom aloft in weird and peculiar grandeur.

New York's artificial mountain peaks are not as beautiful as Europe's cathedral spires. But the view from them is far more superb. No man who has journeyed to the fifty-fifth story of a New York business building and has watched from there the ships of a hundred countries creeping into port over the sun-kissed bay can ever be impressed henceforth by sticking his head out of a church spire window and getting an eyeful of wind and house roofs.

The Holland Letter

The farewell remarks of Senator Burton, of Ohio, in the last moments of the session of congress which ended on March 4 would have been read with gratification by the late George Westinghouse, were he now living. In a few addresses delivered by Mr. Westinghouse, notably one at Atlanta some years ago, he spoke with emphasis of the unexpended wealth which the United States possesses in the form of natural energy which can be economically converted into power. It was, however, in private conversation that Mr. Westinghouse spoke with the greatest earnestness and, of course, with greater frequency than was characteristic of his public addresses, of this energy, what the economic saving to the American people would be if it were utilized, almost always insisting that with the energy put to use there could be no question about the pre-eminent position of the United States within a short time as a manufacturing nation, and that, too, without impairing our agricultural resources and productiveness.

Senator Burton, in his closing remarks as senator, really echoed, although without any plagiarism, some things which Mr. Westinghouse said in his Atlanta address. He spoke of the fact that there is energy equivalent to thirty million horse power in the currents of waterfalls and streams of the United States. Mr. Westinghouse in his Atlanta address demonstrated, as he thought satisfactorily, that the streams that flow through the southern states contain native energy which, if utilized, would operate almost all of the industries of the south, would furnish power for highway trolleys and for many of the railroads, and could be made available through irrigation plants for the improvement of agricultural lands.

Senator Burton did not speak of the manner in which this water power, most of which now goes to waste, can be conveniently and economically converted into available energy for municipal lighting or for the movement of cars. He did not need to make such references because there is no lack of knowledge, at least of a general kind, of the manner in which water power is converted into electric energy. It was from the point of view of electricity that Mr. Westinghouse first had his attention called to the availability of water power through conversion into electric energy to furnish economically all the energy that is needed for a majority of the industrial plants of the United States.

At Niagara Falls.

Three or four men of science who lived in the vicinity of Niagara Falls twenty-five years ago were persuaded that some portion, not a very large portion either, of the energy that is in the Niagara river could be converted into electric energy so that industrial plants would be established on the banks of the river. Mr. Westinghouse's attention was called to this proposition and with his intuitive capacity for reaching the vital point of anything laid before him he instantly said that the proposition was sound from every point of view provided the capital could be found who would finance it. He would take care of the electrical factors. The late J. P. Morgan instantly realized, with his intuitive capacity for reasoning, what the proposition meant, when his attention was called to it, so that he was ready to do from the point of view of finance what Mr. Westinghouse said he would do from the point of view of electricity.

Within two years turbines which were equivalent of converting some part of the energy of the Niagara current into electrical energy which was equivalent to 5,000 horsepower in case of each turbine were installed. What Mr. Westinghouse predicted respecting the capacity of science to convey this energy for long distance, Buffalo afterward demonstrated to have been an accurate prediction.

Shortly after the Niagara plant was established, a large American industry with which the late William R. Grace, who was twice mayor of New York city, was identified was called upon to install apparatus in the Mysore district of India. This apparatus was intended for developing the large gold field in the Mysore district. There had been considerable advance since science and capital had shown what could be done in the way of cheap utilization of power on the banks of the Niagara river. For science was able to make perfect a plant which converted the energy in a large water power in the Mysore district into electric energy and then convey that energy for a distance of one hundred miles so that it was utilized in mining operations.

Why Not in the South?

If this could be done in India and at Niagara Falls, Mr. Westinghouse was persuaded that there was no good reason why it could not be done in many parts of the south. New England, in the far west, and, in fact, all over the country. He was persuaded that with the utilization of these water powers the southern section of the country would be in the position to which her resources entitled her.

Apparently with this view Senator Burton, in his closing remarks, asserted that the utilization of $0,000,000 horse power energy, which is in the primary water powers of the United States, would not only touch great capitalization, but also such wise management, as to make it necessary to establish these systems upon a stable and wise system of the government. Within a hundred years, even if there be such greater economy in the use of hard coal than is now practiced, our anthracite supply will be exhausted. But with the energy of our streams converted into electric energy without the use of hard coal any considerable amount, the economic question is satisfactorily answered.

The senator also intimated that there are other forms of utilizing the natural resources of the country and of ending the deplorable waste which has been so characteristic of American development. There should be careful investigation of these resources by government authorities, so that the United States can produce not only lavishly, but in the highest of economic development of them as that which has been characteristic of Germany, there should be no question about the pre-eminence of the United States among the nations of the world with the next twenty-five years. That is thought to be the intimation conveyed by Senator Burton to his colleagues in the senate from whom he was parting.

THE MODERN MAID.

I met a little maid whose glance, so winsome, made me glad; her lid, she said, was brought from France, her furs from Petrograd. "Will you marry me?" I asked; "sweet maid, you suit me to a T." Then all her molars she displayed; her laugh was large and rattled. "This marriage-hunk," the maid replied, "gives me an oblong pain; what profits it to be a bride? What does a damsel gain?" The housewife is a total loss, a drudge unpaid and meek; but my employers come across with fifteen bones each week. The wife must beg her tightwad man for every dime he spends; a girl becomes an alien in the minute that she weds. Oh, cheerfully my way I jog, I find this old world nice; I'm independent as a hog that has been placed on ice. And if I wedded you, I fear, the change would make me ill; I'd have to go to work you for a year to get a dollar bill. My bank account is on the boom, I smile and dance and sing; oh, could I for me the orange bloom, white gloves or wedding ring." So she went giggling on her way, and would not be a frau; I wonder if she'll be as gay some twenty years from now?

Atlanta Teacher Says Closing of Normal School Would Be a Calamity

Editor Constitution: When I entered the public school system of Atlanta several years ago my objection to being connected with it was the fact that there was no normal training department where teachers could strengthen their weak points.

Atlanta had not raised sufficient money to support one.

Of course, I was very conscious of weak points. I had many of them, for I lacked experience of the type that is necessary to be a success in a system where a teacher is, and must necessarily be, a Jack-at-all-trades. Out of a salary of $500 I found it necessary to spend, the first year, $57 for special lessons in methods in arithmetic and music. Fifty dollars each year for special methods in arithmetic was what I felt was due the class entrusted to my care during my first three years' experience here; and I was glad when I was given an opportunity to attend Miss Elizabeth Kennedy, now deceased, in our normal department.

If Macon has found the Alexander normal department a mental and financial asset to her system for twenty years, there is certainly no reason why Atlanta should take a stride backward in closing the normal department that is her strength. It took too long a time to inaugurate this department as it is.

Teachers Indorse.

It has the hearty indorsement of all progressive teachers, and there are plenty of such teachers in our midst who are hungering and thirsting for growth and expansion both in our schools and in themselves. Few people are more closely connected with the needs of our system can fully appreciate the value of such a department both to the teacher and child.

Shall we deny Atlanta girls an opportunity to perfect themselves at home and force them to climb boxes and barrel tops in other states and cities where public school systems are more progressive than we have been, or shall we hold the ground we now have and give them better opportunities at home in the future?

Atlanta girls have the same right to a normal education at home that Atlanta children have to a public school education.

The same tax money should support both departments of our educational system; and money is never wasted when spent to uplift home institutions.

Would you let your house rot down over your head, or would you repair it and add to it?

Below are quoted some vital statistics that show the growth of our city and the progress of the school system since 1907.

What the Wolves Said.

Wolves came round after the battle, tearing the slain.—Recent message.

The wolves came round the Russian wounded slinking,
The wolves came nosing round the German slain;
Perchance they wearied of the river-drinking
And sought a richer beverage on the plain.

Perchance these shaggy cold-emboldened howlers,
By timorous mortals christened "beasts of prey,"
Felt kinship with the wounded human prowlers,
And marveled much what kind of wolves were they.

For wolves beyond a shade of doubt they must be—
These things that tore their fellows tooth and nail.
And Gray Coat howls to Gray: "What can the matter be?
That drives these men beneath October's pale?

"To tear each other piecemeal in their trenches,
To pelt each other down with teeth of steel,
To fill the air with death and deadly stenches,
And thunder-claps that make the forest reel?

"We wild four-footed hunters make no slaughter
To stanch our thirst—as do these bipeds grim,
Who pour each other's blood like Dniper water,
And rend their brethren madly limb from limb.

"There is no wood marauder lithe and savage
Would glut his greed upon his ravening kind,
Our pack will take its fill of bitter ravage
And leave a taint of blood upon the wind.

"But never do we leave such witness sorry
As these do, piled on hill and slope and lea,
Where rages Man—the Wolf's a bygone story,
There is no need on Earth for such as We!"

Resurrection, August, 1914.

(Alfred Ollivant, in The Atlantic.)

The Deluge first and after it the Dawn—
The misery of dull enduring years,
The hopeless toil, the weary days and tears
Of patient peoples overwhelmed and worn
Beneath a burthen hardly to be borne.
A Whirlwind stirs, the starry splendor clears;
Swift dissipates the stifling fog of fears.
Triumphant breaks the Resurrection Morn.
Oh, praise and pray! We waited on the Word—
That stilled the billowy waves of Galilee.
It came at last, inscribed upon a Sword
That flashed in fury over land and sea.
We sought our knees; and lo! the Risen Lord,
The stone rolled back, was greeting you and me.

UNDERWOOD DISCUSSES RAILROAD SITUATION

Democratic Leader Says If Regulation Fails, Government Ownership Will Come.

New York, March 9.—In a speech on the railroad situation before the Sphinx club here tonight, Oscar W. Underwood, house majority leader in the last congress and now elected a senator from Alabama, declared that "if governmental regulation is unable to cope with the vexed problem that confronts us, the people will accept government ownership as the next step ahead."

Discussing the present system of regulating business, Mr. Underwood said the time had come when the government should aid leaders of industry and finance.

"It is not enough for the government to permit these men to rise from the prostration which has overtaken them and their affairs," he continued. "We have reached the point on our way to social betterment where sound progressivism must recognize that the proper regulation of business requires that it must sometimes be helped and not always hindered; must be sometimes assisted and not forever stricken; that we must occasionally say, 'You may' and not always 'You shall not.'"

Adequate Provision for Capital.

Adequate provision for capital to maintain and extend the national transportation system is the problem confronting the government in its regulation of railroads, Mr. Underwood asserted. He added that "our present system of regulation is breaking down in so far as it has supervised the finances of the railroads with a view to allowing them properly to protect their securities that their credit may be maintained to aid in present and future development."

Regulation of railroads, Mr. Underwood said, should take into consideration the interests, not only of the railroads themselves and those directly interested as shippers, but of the entire country whose commercial prosperity is dependent upon adequate shipping facilities.

"We have undertaken the problem of government regulation of railroads," he continued, "and the government will not turn back. Regulation of practices and rates is here and here to stay. But let us stand for wise and just regulation and not for ill-considered and antagonistic legislation that must regulate so as to insure all necessary railroad facilities both for the present and for the future. As the public in the end must pay the bill, it is primarily interested in the railroads securing the money needed for their maintenance and development at reasonable rates and equally interested in seeing that it is wisely expended.

Revolutions Don't Move Backward.

"Revolutions never move backward. If governmental regulation is unable to cope with the vexed problem that confronts us, the people will accept government ownership as the next step ahead. It is therefore, a matter of great importance that we should earnestly endeavor to find a fair and reasonable solution of the problem of regulation at as early a day as possible.

After discussing the difficulties of dealing with the railroads through the varying jurisdictions of the state and federal governments, Mr. Underwood said:

"It cannot be denied that public control has reduced the rates charged for transportation and abolished unjust discriminations against the general shippers. But the greater problem remains unsolved. Can the money be provided to expand and develop the great public works in a manner commensurate with the expanding needs of our commerce under the present system of public control?

"If railroad investments cannot be made attractive to capital is not the nation threatened with an inevitable breakdown of its transportation system?"

RESULTS OF OPERATION OF SOUTHERN RAILWAY

Washington, March 9.—The results of operation of Southern Railway company for the month of January, exclusive of interest, rentals and other income charges are announced by Comptroller A. H. Plant today as follows:

LOCAL OPTION FAVORED FOR NEW YORK CITY

New York, March 9.—Local option for New York city was discussed as a possibility at the city hall today. It was said unofficially the present city administration would favor such legislation.

Mayor Mitchel refused to commit himself, but proponents of the movement claim his support. It was said the sort of law wanted would divide the city into districts, each of which would decide for itself on excluding liquor.

L. & N. ROAD IN FIGHT WITH WESTERN UNION

Washington, March 9.—The prolonged fight between the Louisville and Nashville railroad and the Western Union Telegraph company over right-of-way privileges began today in the first case presented today to the supreme court in oral arguments.

The Western Union is seeking to condemn a right-of-way on the railroad's property in Louisiana. The railroad contends that this cannot be done under the state law because congress controls the right-of-way under the so-called "railroad act" of 1866.

The case is expected to settle controversy between two companies in several states and to establish a precedent.

HE LEAPED TO DEATH TO PROVIDE FOR WIFE

Los Angeles, March 9.—Letters left by John W. Reid, formerly manager of a lumber oil company, who jumped 150 feet to his death yesterday from the roof of a hotel here, show he chose that means to assure his wife a cash advance through a $10,000 life insurance policy.

"For the second time, war had wrecked Reid financially. First the Mexican strife and then the European conflict had swept away his investments. Before taking the leap he selected a coffin and a burial plot.

"Agents of the Russian, French and British governments have for months been trying to get the Driggs-Seaburg corporation to manufacture shells for them," he said, "but they all have been rejected.

"Our corporation will take no part in the bloody business. I am opposed to war on principle."

IMMATURE ORANGE LAW ATTACKED BY GROWERS

Washington, March 9.—Contending that no two persons mean the same thing when they speak of a "mature" orange, attorneys for Florida citrus growers before the supreme court today attacked the constitutionality of the Florida law of 1913, which prohibits the shipping of "immature" citrus fruit. It was contended the law was too indefinite to be valid. The argument was made in the case of S. J. Sligh, arrested in Orange county, Florida, on a charge of violating the law.

GERMAN PRISONERS TELL OF HEAVY LOSSES

Paris, March 9.—Evidence given by prisoners is cited in a semi-official note issued by the war office to prove that German losses have been very heavy. The statement is made that one active regiment (3,000 men) lost 700 in an attack on February 16, while a regiment of chasseurs had all its officers killed or wounded on January 8.

The stretcher bearers of a field ambulance have stated that every night for three weeks they brought in from 350 to 400 seriously wounded Germans.

Holds Up Her Left Foot And Says, "Never Again!"

MISS WILLS-RAMEY.

"See! I hold up my left foot and solemnly say, 'Never again' But hurry up, Mr. Photographer. I can't hold my foot up all day, you know."

So Miss Wills-Ramey propped her dainty foot in the porch swing and let the photographer take his time.

It is not that she expects ever to have again the bad luck which the white silk stockings with the flashing black clocks and the black shoes with the white tops recently brought her when Detective Bass Rosser followed the trail of her distinctive footgear through the downtown mazes to a distressful climax.

You see, Detective Rosser had been informed that Miss Wills-Ramey—the lady of the white hose with the black clocks—was clever in other ways than as a "movie" actress, for which she has a reputation all her own. A brooch or a pin, or some such such trinket had disappeared from a "beauty shop." But, of course, Miss Wills-Ramey—why, the judge himself said he didn't believe it!

But that's an old story now.

"I just want you to take this picture," she said, "so that it will be a continual reminder to me of my promise not to wear them again. I am liable to forget 'most any time, you know, for I do love pretty things! And my shoes—my new little black-and-white shoes—are so pretty and my soft new silk stockings, with their little clocks and all, are just adorable!

"But never again for me!

"There may be a divinity which shapes our ends, but as long as I have my right mind I'll know how I dress my own in the future!"

AMERICANS ARE WARNED TO LEAVE MEXICO CITY

General Obregon were noted by the American government as likely to stir up dangerous feeling against foreigners giving rise possibly to riots and outrages.

The note pointed out that if harm befell foreigners the American government would hold Carranza officials "personally responsible," and would hold the same means to impose the responsibility where it belonged. The communication was not in the nature of an ultimatum, President Wilson himself declared that the United States did 'not utter ultimatums, but reserved its rights and acted accordingly."

In view of the American warning, it was considered likely the Obregon forces would not evacuate Mexico City without arranging for the policing of the city. Reports that evacuation had begun and that disorders had arisen brought a feeling of relief to officials, who believed that Carranza would not fail to answer the American government with the requisite action for the protection of the foreigners.

DRASTIC MEASURES HARDLY PROBABLE.

In a sense, there was an absence in official quarters of apprehension that drastic measures would be required to enforce the administration's movement of warships to Mexican waters and the warning to Americans, it was admitted, however, had been decided on out of an abundance of precaution.

The entry of Zapatista forces, it was believed, would relieve the situation, as it would mean the reopening of communication north of the American border.

The sending of the warships to Vera Cruz, it was stated on high authority, was for the purpose of convincing Carranza of the determination of the United States to take drastic steps if finally compelled by circumstances to do so.

In view of the interruption of railroad communication between Mexico City and Vera Cruz, except for military purposes, the state department declared today it had not been provided for Americans who desire to reach the sea.

The American agency here issued another denial tonight of reports of General Obregon's activities, giving a telegram from Obregon himself denying that he had interfered with shipping of food to the city. President Wilson himself indicated that some of the reports about conditions in the capital were exaggerated, but said the fear of riots and outrages and of food famine had been about a serious situation. It is known, too, from reports from the Brazilian minister that General Obregon refused transportation facilities for the International relief committee, which raised 250,000 pesos with which to bring supplies into the capital to succor the poor and destitute.

It was believed tonight a reply from Carranza would be received tomorrow, but with the evacuation of Mexico City and the return of the Zapatistas, who, according to official reports, policed the city well when they last were in command, officials were inclined to believe the crisis would be passed without serious difficulty.

CHARGES DENIED BY GENERAL OBREGON.

The Carranza agency here announced tonight that the following had been received from General Obregon in reply to a telegram asking for information about conditions in Mexico City:

"The resident foreigners are absolutely in no danger whatsoever. When I levied the extraordinary assessment on the merchants, bankers, business and professional men in general in an effort to alleviate the poverty-stricken conditions of the poor the foreigners bring the constitutionalists into dispute.

General Carranza has promised not to interfere with the cable company's land entries to Mexico City.

WILSON'S AGENT WITH GEN. VILLA.

El Paso, Texas, March 9.—Villa governor-elect of Chihuahua, declared today tonight that no report of either the evacuation of Mexico City or the withdrawal of troops or its occupation by the Zapata forces had passed through Juarez, up to midnight, nor in the hands of the Villa faction which is connected by telegraph with the interior.

General Villa and his headquarters were located today at Torreon. His agents here understood that he was preparing his campaign against coast towns, and would leave the Mexico City situation to Zapata.

U. S. FOR VILLA, ASSERTS HOWARD

voiced in some quarters as to the appropriations of the democratic party are entirely without foundation. Reports will be made public in a few days showing that the democratic administration is not responsible for excessive appropriations, but that former republican administrations alone are responsible. Appropriations had already been made by republican administrations for many public buildings which have not been completed. If we had not made the appropriations necessary for the completion of such works, the money which had already been spent upon them would have been a gross waste of the people's funds.

"Failure of the Underwood tariff act has also been laid at the door of the democratic administration for the big decrease in the nation's revenues. Such, however, cannot be a fair statement considered the case. The Underwood tariff act would have provided ample revenue had it not been for the European war which cut off practically all our foreign commerce. There is where the trouble lies, and the matter of an emergency war tax, under these conditions, was inevitable. It will be found that the republicans will not make an issue of the Underwood tariff act in the 1916 campaign."

FIRE ON LA TOURAINE BEING INVESTIGATED

Havre, March 9.—A rigid inquiry is being made into the fire at sea aboard the French line steamer La Touraine, which docked at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and landed safely all her passengers.

Admiral Charlier, of the ministry of marine, and Director Dupont, of the Compagnie General Trans-Atlantique, boarded the vessel on her arrival and began investigations at once. Their report will be submitted to the government.

The passengers apparently were none the worse for their thrilling experience. The fire, confined to the hold, one of the holds, was extinguished at midnight on the fifth stage of the voyage was without incident.

Life belts were distributed among the passengers and the boats were prepared for instant use as soon as the flames were discovered, but at no time was there any real danger, according to Captain Cuenin. He declared the wireless call for assistance was sent merely as a measure of precaution. There was no disorder, Captain Cuenin said, the passengers accepting the situation calmly in the belief that the fire would be conquered.

ROUGH WEATHER DELAYS BELGIAN RELIEF SHIPS

New York, March 9.—Rough weather on the north Atlantic will delay the ships of the Commission for Relief in Belgium and the vessels carrying American ports to load cargoes, the commission's New York department announced tonight. One of the ships, the Camperdown, had to return to Queenstown March 6 to repair storm damages.

The delay is cited by the commission, however, as offering more opportunity to make up cargoes with which to refill the ships upon their arrival. Among them are the Strathtay in New York tomorrow and the Missouri Relief ship Glenshiel, due at New Orleans.

Of the 32,806 tons of foodstuffs either have been arranged for or delivered at Rotterdam in the fifty-five ships of the commission's fleet to date.

"The Story of the Lives and Works of Dr. Chapman and Mr. Alexander" has been printed by The Atlanta Constitution in a concise, interesting and easy reading style—96 pages. Price at Constitution office 25 cents, or sent by mail for 30 cents.

NEW YORK HEADS PORTS IN FOREIGN COMMERCE

Washington, March 9.—New York continues far ahead of all ports in the handling of America's foreign commerce, while two southern cities—Galveston and New Orleans—stand second and third in volume of exports, and New Orleans is fourth for imports.

An analysis of foreign trade for 1914, announced today by the department of commerce, showed the value of New York's exports was 40 per cent of the country's total, and its imports more than 54 per cent. The port's total foreign trade was $1,587,000,000, while the country's total was $2,993,-000,000.

Analysis of exports shows Galveston, with $197,000,000, standing second; New Orleans, with $161,000,000, third; Baltimore, with $107,000,000, fourth, and Detroit with $95,000,000, fifth.

In imports Boston, with $162,00,000, is second; Philadelphia, with $88,000,000, third; New Orleans, with $59,000,000, fourth, and San Francisco, with $70,-000,000, fifth.

GREECE BUYING WHEAT FROM UNITED STATES

Washington, March 9.—With the Russian wheat supply cut off by the closing of the Dardanelles to merchant ships, Greece has now turned to the United States and is now buying from this country from 25,000 to 40,000 tons of wheat, according to Alexander C. Wedell, consul General Alexander W. Wedell at Athens. The Hellenic government has taken this step with a view of keeping down food prices and checking speculation in foodstuffs. In purchasing American wheat, the government is acting through the National Bank of Greece, which in turn, distributes it to the millers at lowest possible prices.

Consul Weddell reports that all negotiations for the purchase of American wheat are made at Athens, and advises American sellers wishing to enter the market, to appoint a local agent to represent them.

METROPOLITAN STARS WILL NOT GO ABROAD

New York, March 9.—For the first time many of the principals of the Metropolitan opera company expect this year to spend the summer in the United States instead of sailing home in May with their earnings.

The war is responsible. It was said today at the opera house that Italy's entry into the war was sufficiently probable to induce the majority of the Italian singers to abandon any plans for going abroad. The Germans have no means of going home.

General Manager Gatti-Casazza is expected this day here and the summer and keep his singers together so as to have no such difficulty in assembling them as he faced last fall.

120,000 LINES DRAWN ON 6 SQUARE INCHES

Chicago, March 9.—Dr. A. A. Michelson, of the University of Chicago, winner of the Nobel prize for research in physical measurements in 1907, has just completed a twelve-year task of drawing 120,000 lines on six square inches of metal, which, it is said, will determine the chemical substance of the planets.

The purpose of the ruled metal, which is called a diffraction grating, is to analyze light and through the analysis of light, to analyze the chemical composition of objects at any distance. The shape of metal is resting on a bed of mercury at the university to protect it from the earth vibrations, and is encased in glass to exclude the air and dust. It is covered with straight ruled lines, all exactly alike and all parallel. Twenty thousand lines are drawn on every inch of the six-inch surface.

WOMAN IS ARRAIGNED FOR KILLING HUSBAND

Mobile, Ala., March 9.—Mrs. Theresa Nelson McIlroon, who shot and killed her husband, Hugh L. McIlroon, a prominent shoe merchant in this city, on December 17 following a separation and quarrel, was arraigned in the city court late yesterday afternoon and through her attorney entered a plea of not guilty and an additional plea of not guilty by reason of insanity. The court then drew a special venire of jurymen to try the cases. Mrs. McIlroon was present in the court, attired in deep black, and several times convulsed with weeping. She will be tried on Thursday, March 11.

NOW IS TIME TO CATCH SOUTH AMERICAN TRADE

Chief Pratt of U. S. Commerce Bureau Urges Manufacturers to Study Conditions.

Detroit, Mich., March 9.—Trade conditions in most of the countries of South and Central America are rapidly recovering from the collapse which followed the outbreak of the European war, according to E. E. Pratt, chief of the federal bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, who addressed the Detroit board of commerce tonight on the outlook for the foreign trade of the United States. Now is the time, Mr. Pratt said, for manufacturers to send a wide-awake business diplomat into South America to study the needs of the country and lay the foundations for future business.

Explaining the difference between actual and fictitious trade balances, Mr. Pratt said the steady pouring of food and supplies from the United States into Europe now was building up an actual balance in favor of America at the rate of millions a month.

Conditions Are Changing.

"The countries to the south of us at the outbreak of the war," he continued, "were in very much the position of a manufacturer who had manufactured his annual output and then finds that his market has collapsed and that his orders are cancelled.

"But conditions are changing. The countries which were most closely related to ourselves, Colombia, Venezuela and Ecuador and the republics of Central America are recovering and are fairly prosperous. Argentina and Uruguay are fast approaching normal. Bolivia and Peru have just started on the upgrade. Brazil and Chile alone of the countries of Latin-America (except Mexico) have been unable to begin their recovery.

"A minute examination of the conditions in Argentina is thoroughly worth while. Argentina has been suffering during the latter half of 1913 and the beginning of 1914 from a severe financial depression, wantonly essentially by inflation and speculation followed by crop failures and sharp retrenchment.

"In spite of the gravity of the situation six months ago, Argentina is already recovering and is approaching normal conditions. Argentina is today on a firmer foundation of sound values than ever before. Argentina is today getting higher prices for her wheat, corn, oats, wool and meat than ever before.

Time Is Opportune.

"But after all, the economic condition of the countries to the south of us is not nearly as important as the amount of common sense which our manufacturers may or may not have. Is the present time an opportune one for opening up our markets in South America? Emphatically, yes! Is the present time an opportune one for selling goods? Probably, not so emphatically. But it is the time to sell goods. This is the time to send a salesman, or better, a business diplomat, into South America to study the markets, to learn the country, to meet the people, to become acquainted with the trade and to lay the foundations for future business.

"To expect, however, to obtain large financial returns from this new and difficult field is folly. The folly of the uninformed. You would scarcely expect a salesman in a new territory to show a profit on his initial trip. Then why expect it in a foreign territory?

"What I have said with reference to South America applies with a large part of the world. In the first place, conditions are readjusting, they are fast becoming normal. In the second place, now is the time for the manufacturers of this country to wake up and build up their trade in foreign countries."

HEAVY TAX PROPOSED ON MICHIGAN BEER

Lansing, Mich., March 9.—A tax of $1 on every barrel of beer made or sold in Michigan is proposed in a bill which probably will be introduced in the state legislature tomorrow. The bill adds another phase to the many-sided liquor battle being waged in the legislature.

Legislators interested in the bill declare it would produce $400,000 annual revenue for the state highway fund.

Positive Relief For Constipation

The progress of modern medical science is, perhaps, no more forcefully evident than in the simplifying of many of the old time remedies of past generations. For instance, the harsh cathartics and violent purgatives used by our forefathers to relieve constipation are now known to be not only unnecessary, but really harmful. Constipation can be more effectively relieved without the discomfort and pain these old-time remedies occasion.

A combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, is now found in stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a most effective, yet mild and pleasant. It is absolutely free from opiates and narcotics and equally as desirable a remedy for the tiniest babe as for rugged manhood. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

Finds a Cure For Pellagra

All Skin Eruption Gone, Doctors Now Convinced Mrs. Vaughn Is Entirely Well.

Mrs. C. H. Vaughn, Millville, Ark., writes: "There is nothing I ever could do but what I can do it now. There is no sign of skin eruption. One of our local doctors told me that my cure was one of the grandest things that ever happened—not only for me, but for the whole community, to let them know that there is a cure for pellagra.

"All the doctors that waited on me are convinced that your remedy is a real cure."

There's the true word from a cured patient. If you have Pellagra, or know of anyone who suffers from Pellagra, it is your duty to consult the resourceful Rauchs, who has fought and conquered the dreadful malady right in the heart of the Pellagra belt in Alabama.

The symptoms—hands red like sunburn, skin peeling off; sore mouth, the lips, throat and tongue flaming red with much mucous and choking; indigestion and nausea; either diarrhea or constipation.

There is hope. Get Baughn's Big Free book on Pellagra, and learn about the remedy for Pellagra that has at last been found. Address American Compounding Co., Box 2002, Jasper, Ala., remembering money is refunded in any case where the remedy fails to cure.

"THE SCARLET LINE," CHAPMAN'S TOPIC

"Society Has Slammed Doors in Your Face," He Tells Prodigal Girls, "But God Has Not."

About 4,000 people, among whom were many young women, last night heard Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman speak at the revival tabernacle on "The Prodigal Girl."

If there was a "prodigal girl" present in last night's audience the full realization of her guilt must have been driven home when, in the opening of his sermon, Dr. Chapman rose to his full height and shouted: "Is she here."

"Society has slammed its door in your face, "he said, "but God has not. He will always receive you whenever you will consent to come to Him.

"Society has slammed its doors in your faces, but the Chapman-Alexander forces will receive and welcome you. I will be your friend, and Mrs. Chapman will kiss you for your mother's sake and will help you to find salvation."

When Dr. Chapman opened his invitation, which, however, was general and not restricted to "prodigal girls," many young women went down the aisle to pledge themselves to Christ.

Dr. Chapman issued another invitation to all who wanted to get their homes right with God to stand up. A large percentage of those present stood.

When, later, he invited every father and mother who would institute family worship in their homes, hardly more than fifty people arose.

A touching incident related by Dr. Chapman last night was that of a fireman on the Southern railway who died Monday from injuries received in a wreck. The wreck occurred but three days after the flagman had been converted at Dr. Chapman's meetings, "and," said Dr. Chapman, "he died happy in the assurance of salvation."

An impressive sight was when 350 members of the Epworth league marched down the aisle in a body singing "The Old Time Religion," and took their seats in a special reservation made for them. They carried a big banner identifying them.

Dr. Chapman's Sermon.

Dr. Chapman's text was: "Give me a true token; and that ye will save alive my father, and my mother, and my brethren, and my sisters, and all that they have, and deliver our lives from death."—Joshua 2:12-13.

The sermon follows:

There is great sorrow in one of the homes in Jericho not because there is poverty there, because sometimes the poorest homes are the very best.

There are homes in this city where the walls are plain, the furnishings very ordinary, the neighborhood undesirable, but these homes are like heaven, and he who is the head of such a home never thinks of it without a vision of angels escanping about it, and a ladder let down from the sky into every room of it, over which heaven's blessings constantly descend. The children grow up, and have better homes of their own from a human standpoint, but they never forget the place where their mother loved and their father loved.

Daughter Leads Life of Sin.

The trouble with this home in Jericho is that the daughter has gone away on a life of sin, and nothing could be worse than that. It puts lines of deepest care in the face of the father and whitens the hair of the mother, and shortens the years of both.

Jericho was an interesting city. It stood in a magnificent valley. Back of it you could see the mountains, near to it washed the sea, and before it was the river, which filled so important a place in the history of God's ancient people. But Jericho was a doomed city.

God's delays in judgment are not God's failures to execute judgment. For example, Reuben sinned when he was young. Forty-three years after his sin the penalty fell upon him. Joseph's brethren lied to their father, and twenty years later they faced the effects of their sin. Joab killed Abner, and thirty-four years passed before he was punished. Years and years before God's judgment was pronounced upon the city, the years passed by and no judgment seemed to fall and the destruction of the city where they lived is the occasion of the text for this message.

Move Towards Doomed City.

The people were buying and selling, marrying and giving in marriage, and they were forgetting God. All the time the people of Israel were moving toward the doomed city. The people of Jericho heard the story of the plagues and they soon forgot; they heard rumors of a great throng of people marching with pillars of fire and a pillar of cloud before them, but it was just a passing sensation, and was soon thrown aside. They heard of Moses leading the people through the Red sea, and they heard that Moses was dead, and for forty-five years no judgment was put upon them, and they became like people of these modern times. Indifferent to all of God's warnings, and all the time they were hastening to their doom.

There was, however, one woman in Jericho who feared God, and the fear of Him meant her salvation.

Spies Enter City.

The spies from the camp of Israel entered into the city of Jericho and they found refuge in her house. Soon the people in the city heard that they were there, and they came storming the house and demanded that the spies be delivered up to them. Rahab took the spies to the roof of the house and hid them for a little season, and then she made way for their escape. Her house stood upon the wall, so she put round about them a cord and let them down hand over hand; but just as they were about to leave her she spoke in the words of the text:

"Give me a true token; and that ye will save my father, and my mother, and my brethren, and my sisters, and all that they have, and deliver our lives from death."

And they said to her they took a piece of the cord with which they had escaped, "Bind this line of scarlet thread in the window," and they were gone.

Let us go back to the home of the parents of Rahab. I can imagine them sitting quietly in the evening with their faces growing whiter and whiter. When your heart is aching you do not say so very much with your lips, and so they are sitting in silence.

They hear a step, and the mother springs to her feet, rushes out into the open air to see if this could be Rahab coming to her, for somehow they never would give her up.

It may be that some of you have a skeleton in your closet that you have in your family history the story of one you do not care to tell. For instance, you think of that one. I would advise you not to open up.

One day Rahab returned to her loved ones. She has a message of instruction is facing the city. There is only one chance for them to be safe. They must all come into her home, for flutter-ing from the window is the scarlet cord which makes the house safe.

All the time the people of Israel are coming nearer, the priests bearing the ark of the covenant, come to the River Jordan, and suddenly the waters separate and they pass over.

They march straight for Jericho.

The word of the Lord came to them saying that they must march around the city, and they must do once each day for six days.

On the seventh day they must march seven times, and then they must shout, for the Lord will give them the city. It seemed like a strange line of warfare. Although they dared not speak, I can imagine one of them, here and there, whispered, "Would God Moses were here. He would take this city in a day." But they did as God commanded, and Jericho was in ruins; all but a single house standing upon it was razed, and as the people look up the scarlet cord is fluttering at the window and the scarlet cord made the home safe.

Such is the story through the Bible. It is not too small, it held Rahab; it is not too short, it is from everlasting to everlasting. By this line escaped Spurgeon, Moody and Torrey. Let us put it around our homes, bind up all that is sacred, binding by faith all that is most dear.

Sanctify the Home.

Let me pain two pictures of the home and see which is yours.

First picture: The father has been true, consistent, like Christ. He has been dead for years, but the memory of his life or take the second picture. A friend of mine in Rochester, N. Y., says that a little boy came hurrying to his house to say, "Dorothy has come quickly, father is drunk again."

"His father was a university graduate, started in at the law, and became almost famous, and then began to drink. He lost everything, became cruel to his wife and children, and this evening he had returned home maddened with drink, had struck his wife and all but killed his little baby. My friend went hurrying to the house only to find the wife and mother standing upon the doorstep with a strained, white expression in her face, and as they came nearer she said, 'He is dead.' The boy waited a moment, then swinging forward he threw his arms around his mother's waist (for there was as high as he could reach) and said, 'Oh, mother, aren't you glad? He will never strike you again.' Could this be your picture? If so, God pity you and God pity the children whom you have brought into the world.

Tells of Two Mothers.

"Let me give two pictures of mothers and see which is yours.

"A society woman who when her little boy returned from a service in playing bridge whist. She was greatly excited, for she was winning and her 16-year-old boy came quietly into the room, put his arms around her neck and said, 'Mother, I confessed Christ tonight,' and she brushed him aside, and said, 'Run along, my son. I will see you later about it.'

"The boy came back to our meetings another night with his face as hard as a child's face could be, and he said, 'I have come back to tell you that I will not accept Christ.' I cannot live in the world if all this is true my mother would be disfigured.

The Children.

"Let me paint two pictures of the children in a household.

"First. The child who is disobedient and disrespectful to parents, who does not yield to parental restraint. Such a child is a nuisance in the home, is a menace to society, breaks a mother's heart, dishonors a father's name. Is this your picture?

"A friend of mine calling upon a Christian woman in New York was told by the woman that she had just received a letter from her daughter who was in a boarding school. It seems that the child had written asking permission to go with other girls to some place that was slightly questionable, and the mother wrote a letter back saying that she could not give her approval, and the letter which had just been received ran like this:

"'Dear Mother: I have just received your letter. For a moment I was disappointed, but I had rather do what you would like to have me do than anything else in the world, and I shall be happy just to stay at home and think that I am pleasing you.'

"And my friend said, 'I suppose you love your child for that.' 'I love her,' said the mother. 'I wish I had her here, I would let her know how deep my affection is.'

"Is that your picture? If so, then your years will be increasingly beautiful and the bright side of these pictures which I have been painting is possible when the home is held by the scarlet cord.

A Bond of Union.

"The scarlet cord should bind households together. There are many things that can do this, of course.

"First. Memory. The memory of your mother. If you have an old mother be good to her; tell her you love her; kiss her faded lips; scatter a few flowers of tenderness about her while she is alive.

"Stop, man, and think what life would have been to you if she had treated you in her old age!

"Suppose there had been no warm, caressing mother love?

"Suppose there had been no soft breast on which you could weep out your childish sorrows, no clinging arms to enfold you and comfort you when the things of the little world went wrong?

"Would it not take away from you the memory of all that is best and sweetest in life? Is there anything in the whole of this earth as the little child that is motherless—that is an alien in a strange home—that has no one to love it?

"Yes, there is just one other figure more forlorn than the little unloved child, and that is the old mother who is unloved by the children she has raised, and who is doomed to spend the last years of her life in a glacial atmosphere of neglect, her devotion, her labors, her sacrifices forgotten.

Gratitude Binds.

"Second. Gratitude. A sense of appreciation of what you have received to make your home all that it should be; gratitude for God's goodness; gratitude for Christ's life; gratitude for salvation; gratitude for a father and a mother. What a wonderful cord it is!

"But the scarlet cord is best of all.

"A friend of mine was driving through the hill country of Scotland, and a sudden storm came on and he found a little inn to house for refuge. He saw a chair in the room which looked very comfortable, and he started towards it. The old Scotch woman then stepped in front of him and said, 'I am very sorry, sir, but you cannot sit there, for just a year ago her majesty Queen Victoria, passed by this house and she came in to be shielded from the storm, and she sat in that chair, and when she went away I put a scarlet cord around it, and no one has ever sat in it since that day, and I expect to put a new one around for his home s it is the queen's chair;' and, oh, it would be wonderful if our homes could be like that, scarlet-marked, and nothing allowed to enter into them which would grieve Him, no spirit of contention, no strife, no worldliness, no sin. God give us such homes and life will be worth while.

Eternal Protection.

"If the scarlet cord be wound about us we will be ready for the judgment. There is only one thing that can count there. That is not pride of birth, nor is it education, nor is it culture or refinement, nor is it worldly distinction. It is the scarlet cord tied by His own hand, and held by His own love. This makes the family circle complete.

"'Is it getting night?' said an old Scotch woman just as she was passing away. 'Husband, is it getting night?' And bending over her the old man, by whose side she had traveled so many years, said, 'Yes, Janet, it is getting night.' 'Are the boys all in?' she said, for wandering a bit in her mind she thought the night coming on was the close of the day and she was back in the old days when the boys would be coming from the field as the day dies out of the sky. 'Are the boys all in?' she said. 'Yes, Janet,' he said, 'they are all in, for the last had gone home to heaven three years ago. 'I will soon be in,' she whispered. 'Yes,' he said, 'Janet, dear, you will soon be in;' and when they thought she had gone, she came back and said, 'And husband, you will soon come.' And bending over her, he put his lips close to her ear so she could plainly hear, and said, 'By the grace of God I will soon come in.' Her face was radiant, her tears were flowing. 'Oh, thank God,' she said. 'Thank God.' Then He will shut us in forever and ever, and we shall be together.' It is only possible to have an unbroken family circle when the scarlet cord binds a household together, for it holds not only for time, but eternity."

BRUTAL TREATMENT OF ALABAMA CONVICTS

Appalling Conditions in the Camps Described by Prison Chaplain Jenkins.

Montgomery, Ala., March 9.—Terrible beatings which resulted in death, enforced performance of dangerous duties which sometimes proved fatal, the use of liquor in camps and herding together of black and white women convicts were related by the Rev. J. A. Jenkins, state prison chaplain, at the request of the legislative investigating committee today.

The chaplain stated that he visited camps throughout the state and witnessed many scenes of indescribable horror. He said he had personally investigated rumors of cruelty and found them substantiated. He said politics was responsible for conditions. Babies were often born in stockades, he said.

Captain Sam Roswald, former commander of battery B, First field artillery, testified that Adjutant General Scully was drunk at Mobile and was directly the cause of the trouble at Mobile which caused the company to be mustered out of the service.

MOVING PICTURES UNIVERSAL

The buildings at Universal City have different architecture on the four sides. They look like Europe, Irup and Orup. Nutty idea, you think? Well, we don't think so. We've got to have the right background for our pictures and if Vesuvius is'nt there we'll build a Vesuvius of our own. D'ye ink we'd run a Russian drama in a Chinese pagoda or put Romeo and Juliet in a Swiss cheese factory? Universal City is the UNIVERSAL'S moving-picture city. Everything there is built for moving pictures—likewise everybody. And it's the only moving picture city in the world. Two thousand inhabitants. Yep.

That's where "The Black Box," E. Phillips Oppenheim's great Universal serial is being made. Come on out and see how it's done. You can see a cowboy play on the stage adjoining, a comedy on the next, a modern society tale on the next, and so on. We've got a steel stage where sixteen companies can work at once. It's the sight of a lifetime. And you'll see all the stars you're stuck on. Gee whiz! Universal City is only a trolley ride from Los Angeles and Los Angeles is on the direct line of the Santa Fe. Come to your favorite theatre, see some Universal pictures, then come out to Universal City and

FORREST ADAMS' TRIAL RESULTS IN HUNG JURY

Madison, Ga., March 9.—(Special.)—Morgan county superior court is still in session here, Judge J. B. Park presiding. This week the criminal docket was taken up and the case of Forrest Adams, a young white farmer, charged with murder, was tried.

Adams shot and killed Walter Chivers, the marshal of Buckhead, about one year ago and has been in the tower in Atlanta since the killing. It appears that there was bad blood between the parties prior to the killing. The jury made a mistrial in the case. Adams was represented by Judge F. D. Foster, Col. E. H. George and Col. A. G. Foster. The state by Solicitor J. E. Pottle and Col. Percy Middlebrooks.

The grand jury is still in session here and is making it hot for gamblers. It is said that several prominent white citizens have been indicted.

Russell, of the state court of appeals, has certified to a writ of error to the United States supreme court in the case of Dan Lehon, southern manager of the Burns detective agency, in his fight against his conviction of violating a city ordinance of Atlanta in working as a private detective in the Frank case without obtaining the permission of the police board and responding to the police chief.

His case was certiorated to the superior court, where Lehon lost and appealed to the state court of appeals, again losing.

Last week George Jones went to Rainey's house and ran him off, taking up his abode with Rainey's wife. Rainey took out a warrant for Jones and had him arrested. Last night while Nora Rainey was sitting by the fire a shotgun was poked in at a window and she was shot through the breast, death resulting almost instantly.

CRACKERS READY FOR SPRING WORK

Bill Smith Has Field Ready for the First Workout at Ponce de Leon Park This Afternoon.

The official reporting day of the 1915 Crackers has arrived. This afternoon, the candidates for places on the 1915 Crackers will begin their first workout.

There are seven men already on the ground and it is believed that the early morning trains will bring several others into camp.

Those players already on hand are, Pitchers Browning, Williams and Ferry, Infielders Eibel and Coffey and Outfielders Moran and Flynn.

There are sixteen other players to arrive and by Saturday night, it is expected that every one of the players will be on hand ready for their daily work-outs, which will be held morning and afternoon.

Of the twenty-three candidates, only five are unsigned, but their signing is a mere formality. They have accepted terms and have advised that they will sign upon reporting here.

With the acquisition of an outfielder from the Browns and the acquisition of a second baseman from the big test, Manager Smith will be ready to stand pat on the men he has and believes that he can weld together a strong team.

The Cracker fans are invited to the work-outs, but Manager Smith has one request to make and that is that they stay in the grandstand, as going down on the field is not only dangerous, but they get in the players' way as well.

McGraw Will Give Two Outfielders in a Trade For "Polly" Perritt

St. Louis, March 9.—Outfielders Beecher and Robertson will be traded by the New York Nationals to the St. Louis Nationals for "Polly" Perritt, pitcher, according to a newspaper dispatch today from San Antonio, where the St. Louis team is in training.

NOOJIN TO ASSIST ALABAMA COACH

University, Ala., March 9.—(Special.)—Lonnie Noojin, for the last three years coach of Howard college, has been selected baseball coach and assistant in football for next year for the University of Alabama. The Alabama athletic committee has been on the lookout for such a man for some time, and believe that in Noojin they have possible associate for Coach Kelley has been found. In addition to the athletic directorship Noojin will have a position on the faculty, either as a professor of science or of modern languages.

EMERY BALL BARRED IN COAST LEAGUE

San Francisco, March 9.—Following the example of the major leagues, the Pacific Coast Baseball league has gone its ban on the so-called "emery" ball. President A. T. Baun, of the league, said yesterday that any player caught using the offending ball would be fined $50 and will be liable to suspension for fifteen days.

Baugh Resigns as Head Of the Birmingham Club; Secretary Is Not Named

According to advices from Birmingham, Robert H. Baugh, the newly-elected president of the Southern league, has resigned his place as president of the Birmingham Baseball association. Vice President W. D. Smith has been elected in his place.

This removes the one obstacle that remained to the final selection of Mr. Baugh as president, there being some talk at the meeting of protesting the election, as the constitution and by-laws of the league specifically stated that no club president can also be league president.

The New Orleans delegation made a fight on Baugh's election on this ground, but were overruled by Acting President Crawford, who was then presiding.

No Secretary Named.

Mr. Baugh has not named his secretary. Birmingham papers carry the stories that Secretary Jacobsen, who was strong for the election of C. A. Kavanaugh, a brother to the late president, has bolted, owing to Mr. Baugh's election.

Mr. Baugh will probably announce the appointment of his secretary in a few days, and it is possible that an Atlanta man may be favored for the place.

Major Frank E. Callaway, president of the Atlanta club, put Mr. Baugh's name in nomination, and The Birmingham Age-Herald speaks of him right for Mr. Baugh in these words:

"The election of Mr. Baugh is due largely to the fight waged in his behalf by President Callaway, of the Atlanta club. Throughout the meeting, the Atlanta magnate was on his feet continually combatting every attempt to postpone the election or to name a compromise candidate.

"Therefore, the choice of Mr. Baugh is a pleasing one to local baseball officials and fans, as it further cements the pleasant relations between the Birmingham and Atlanta clubs.

Bury the Hatchet.

The election of Mr. Baugh also buries the hatchet between the Atlanta and Chattanooga clubs. According to The Chattanooga Times, President Andrews, of the Chattanooga club, and President Callaway, of the local club, fought shoulder to shoulder for Mr. Baugh, and they passed pleasantries regarding their feud that caused them to banish it for good and for all.

Clyde Shropshire, president of the Nashville club, was elected vice president of the league unanimously, according Captain C. T. Crawford, who does not desire to have any further official connection with the league.

Both the election of Mr. Baugh and Mr. Shropshire are for one year. New officers will be elected at the winter meeting next December.

MACON EASILY PASSES $300,000 BOND ISSUE

Fund Will Be Used for Hospital, Sewers and Paving.

Macon, Ga., March 9.—(Special.)—Macon's entire $300,000 bond issue for street paving, sewers and the Macon hospital was carried today with a good margin to spare, there being little opposition.

The $150,000 Macon hospital bonds led the list with 1,692 for and 27 against. Sewer bonds in the sum of $30,000 came next with 1,681 for and 47 against. Paving bonds in the sum of $120,000 carried, 1,649 for and 60 against. A total of 1,749 votes, or two-thirds of the total registration of 2,410, was required to carry the bonds.

The hospital bonds will be used to purchase adjoining ground, erect two new buildings and pay up any indebtedness on the hospital.

The paving bonds will pay the city's one-third of the cost of paving several miles of city streets.

The sewer bonds will be used principally to sewer the Vineville branch, long a menace to the health of the city.

Dr. Durham Conducts Revival.

Macon, Ga., March 9.—(Special.)—Dr. Plato Durham, head of the new Methodist university at Atlanta, arrived here today and will conduct a revival at Mulberry Street Methodist church. The meeting is for the benefit of the pastor, Dr. W. N. Ainsworth, preaching until the arrival of Dr. Durham.

Several other Macon churches are planning revivals, and in the next few months a campaign will be arranged for, when it is hoped to have "Gypsy" Smith or some other noted evangelist preach. It was at first planned to secure "Billy" Sunday, but Willard, the heavyweight pugilist, left here today for Havana, Cuba, to meet Jack Johnson for the world's championship, April 3. Willard has continued light training while here.

No New Trial for Stokes.

Macon, Ga., March 9.—(Special.)—A. W. Stokes, the Macon banker who was convicted several weeks ago of the murder of W. C. Thompson, a grocery clerk, and sentenced to serve a life term in the penitentiary, must serve his term, the supreme court decided today, and refused him a new trial. An effort will be made to get the prison commission to recommend clemency.

Stokes killed Thompson last July in front of the Macon postoffice. He pleaded the "unwritten law," alleging that Thompson was on the way and will again in yesterday and already some of his pitchers are on the way and will be here in a day or two. Winchell and Smith are expected tomorrow. Stout and Neyenhouse Thursday. It is expected that all the hopefuls of the team will be here by the 15th at the latest.

DANGER OF EATING TOO MUCH MEAT

Medical Reports Show That People Who Eat a Great Deal of Meat Are Subject to Typhoid Fever.

The death rate of typhoid has been 10 per cent for many years. Even if the patient recovers, there is danger. A weakened constitution, languidness, loss of energy, and other ailments follow directly due to the effect of typhoid.

In a majority of cases typhoid fever is directly traceable to an inactive liver which has refused to purify the mass of meat particles left undigested in the alimentary canal. This mass putrefies and gives out deadly poisons, so that the patient suffers an attack of typhoid fever. Many cases of easily have been avoided.

Just as CALOMEL is the greatest known liver stimulant. Its action is gentle, yet effective. It draws the water into the alimentary canal, flushes the bowels and takes the undigested meat particles out of the body, removing the danger of fermentation. The blood will be purified through the new, renewed activity of the liver and you will feel like a new person.

JACOBS' CALOMEL is better than calomel. It does not cause nausea, or vomiting, and there are no serious after effects as with calomel, and it is effervescent, pleasant to take. ½-lb. jar 25c at druggists.

EVIDENCE IS BARRED AS TO THAW'S SANITY

Slayer of White Is on Trial for Conspiring to Escape From Matteawan.

New York, March 9.—Attorneys for Harry Kendall Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, today made their first attempt to get testimony concerning his sanity into the record of his trial for conspiracy to escape from Matteawan. The attempt was unsuccessful.

It was while William Gordon, of Beacon, N. Y., hotelkeeper, was on the witness stand that Justice Page, before whom the trial of Thaw and five co-defendants is in progress in the criminal branch of the supreme court, sustained the state's objection to evidence against the introduction of such testimony. It was understood, however, that the ruling applied solely to Gordon's testimony.

Gordon, after telling of the many visits Thaw made to his hotel while on his way to and from habeas corpus proceedings which he instituted, was asked by the counsel whether the defendant appeared to be fully rational at all times.

The prosecution objected, pointing out that the witness had admitted it quite a while prior to the day of the trial that he talked with Harry Thaw. Moreover, the prosecution contended, the sole issue to be decided was that of guilt of the defendant and his alleged co-conspirators.

In upholding the objection Justice Page said that it was the idea of Thaw's counsel to show through the witness Gordon that Thaw was of sound mind at the time of his escape, he thought his testimony on that subject necessarily must be "remote."

John B. Stanchfield, chief of Thaw's legal advisers, asserted after adjournment late today that he would make a further attempt tomorrow to get testimony concerning Thaw's sanity before the jury. The defense of Thaw alleges on the claim that he was sane at the time of his escape and was being detained illegally.

Frank Kennedy, special deputy attorney general in charge of the prosecution, announced tonight that he expected to complete the state's case tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. Kennedy, in outlining the state's case today, asserted that Thaw was in great fear at the time of his escape and that to allow him to be at large at this time would constitute a menace to the public safety.

Although it was said early in the day that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw had abandoned her intention to testify in her husband's behalf, Thaw's attorneys declared they would not call her. She herself said as saying:

"I am tired of this case. I think Harry is being persecuted, and if I take any interest whatever in it, will be to do what I can for him. I think he has been confined long enough, and if his lawyers want me I will do anything I can for him."

Kaesser, proprietor of a hotel at 104 Edgewood avenue, known as the Edgewood hotel, was arrested this afternoon on a charge of running a disorderly house when the police went to arrest him for failing to appear in police court former charge of the same character. The police allege they found four couples in the house.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON THE COTTON MARKET

New York, March 9.—(Special.)—Europe continues to buy a large amount of cotton at present prices, so that the feature of market was better than anticipated. Here, at the opening, there was heavy realizing of some long cotton by parties who had been in on the recent decline. These sales stopped the improvement and finally turned the market downwards. There was no new feature in the situation, except that the trade appear to bring forward the idea that the present price there will be only a slight increase in acreage. On the decline, the west was a small buyer on the investment theory. HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, March 9.—(Special.)—While the market at the opening today was called upon to absorb considerable selling, it did not at a small decline in prices and soon recovered this loss, under general buying in moderate volume. The advance of the past few days has reduced the short interest and consequently demand is less aggressive. On the other hand, selling is not continuous and the local market still shows a good buying power on declines, which is responsible for values improving immediately offerings are reduced. The full exports and reports of steady spot markets at present encourage buying here. JAY, BOND & CO.

Closed steady.

New York, March 9.—Cotton continued quiet today and fluctuations were again irregular, with the close steady at a net decline of 4 to 9 points.

There was considerable selling early by houses with German connections and, after opening steady at an advance of 4 points to a decline of 5 points, active months sold about 7 points under yesterday's closing. Liverpool was relatively steady and Wall street opened here on the decline and as soon as the early offerings were worked off 10,000 bales had been absorbed, the market rallied to about or a shade over the closing prices of last night on covering and local support.

After the close of the English market buying became a little less active and prices eased off during the afternoon, under renewed liquidation, part of which seemed to come from early buyers. After months added to 8 points net lower on the decline, with the old crop months showing about the lowest, in sympathy with the firm showing of southern spot markets.

March notices issued today were estimated at about 1,500 bales, but there was practically no change in May until after midday, although that month was relatively active at times.

The less favorable turn in Mexican affairs may have had some influence in the market on the afternoon decline, but trading was not sufficient to reflect any material change in the general average of sentiment.

Sales on the call today, 41,197. United States port stocks, 1,858,107. Exports today, 28,325; so far this month, 114,265. Interior receipts, 15,336; shipments, 17,153.

Spot cotton quiet; middling uplands, 8.75. Sales, 200 bales.

Spots Advance 13 Points.

New Orleans, March 9.—While cotton was under considerable selling pressure during the day, it showed a good deal of strength at times and closed steady on the improvement in the spot market of 13 points. Sales on the trading months were 5 to 8 points under the close of last night, and while this was practically at the lowest of the day, the highest prices were a point over yesterday's close.

Under existing shipping conditions, exporters are doing all that they were able to put through any new business of importance, and it is said that the shippers in the interior were cancelling contracts rather than ship to the usual Mediterranean ports for sailings the last of this month and April. Against this, however, was a reported better demand for cotton room for English ports.

Although exports now are decreasing they are still large for this time of the year. Foreign exports for the day amounted to 28,325 bales, as against receipts at all ports of 44,197. Exports thus far this week amount to 117,550 bales. Quite predicted this movement for March would be far above the average for this month.

MEXICAN AFFAIRS AFFECTED STOCKS

Market Became Unsettled on News That Warships Would Be Sent to Mexican Ports, But Rallied.

New York, March 9.—For the first time since the war's outbreak, conditions abroad were today almost wholly subordinated to the Mexican situation. Latest developments, as seen in the attitude of the Washington government, drew renewed attention to Mexican affairs and excited some concern in financial circles.

Stocks manifested steadiness at the opening, but became moderately unsettled on announcement that it had been decided to send warships to Mexican ports, but prices became firmer when it became known that Washington had not departed from its policy of non-intervention. Recoveries to the early high level were recorded, but the trading grew increasingly dull, with few material changes at the close.

Retirement of the Gould, or dominant, interest from the Missouri Pacific and St. Louis and Iron Mountain roads was reflected by considerable activity at advancing prices in securities of those properties. Later, however, profit-taking in Missouri Pacific caused some shading of quoted values. Western Maryland, common and preferred, were the only railroad stocks to score substantial gains. Canadian Pacific, Reading, Lehigh Valley and Chesapeake and Ohio were relatively heavy.

Time money was dull, six months' loans being made at 3 1-4 per cent. Sales of stocks for the day totalled 209,100 shares.

There was a marked decrease of future or foreign sales of our bonds. That market was irregular, with strength in low-priced issues. Our bankers announced an impending loan of $15,000,000 to Switzerland in the form of 1 to 5-year 5 per cent notes, the proceeds to be used for purchases in this country. The notes will be offered to the public, at a price slightly under par, according to report.

Total sales, par value, aggregated $2,417,000. United States bonds unchanged on call.

WHEAT CONTINUES TO SOAR UPWARD

Market Closed Firm, One-Half to Five and Three-Quarter Cents Up—Corn and Oats Also Higher.

Chicago, March 9.—Assertions that American wheat exports were about twice as rapid as conditions would warrant, sent the market today to a much higher level, with the close firm at ½ to 5¾ net advance. Corn finished ⅛ to ¼@⅜; oats a shade to ⅛ up, and provisions off 10 to 27½.

Corn was inclined to drag on slowness of cash demand, and that handicapped oats.

Enlarged hog receipts weighed on provisions.

COFFEE FUTURES OFF ACCOUNT LIQUIDATION

New York, March 9.—Coffee futures were lower today, under some scattering liquidation and a little trade selling, which may possibly have been inspired by continued large Brazilian receipts and further heavy clearances from Brazil to the United States. The market opened at a decline of 2 to 3 points and closed at a net loss of 7 to 12 points. Sales, 13,000.

Spot quiet; Rio No. 7, 7¾; Santos No. 4, 9⅝.

Brazilian markets unchanged. Receipts at the two Brazilian ports, 54,000 mags; Jundiahy receipts, 21,000. Santos cleared 127,000 bags for New York and New Orleans and Victoria 17,000 for New York.

Cost and freight offers were a shade easier on low grades, but some of the higher grades were a little higher with quotations ranging up from 9.75 for Santos fours.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

Morris Brandon and J. H. Ewing, with W. E. Hancock, are planning extensive improvements on the north side in the section of the city adjacent to the Druid Hills property.

A new street is to be opened up, and Mr. Brandon and Mr. Ewing have let a contract for their part of grading the street, which runs from a point just west of the intersection of Briarcliff road and Greenwood avenue north through their subdivision.

At this point Mr. Hancock will take up the street grading and finish the work to Virginia avenue.

This is through one of the most beautiful sections of Atlanta, and promises to be a beautiful subdivision when the grading is completed.

The total cost of the grading will approximate $8,000.

Building Improving.

Building Tuesday showed considerable improvement over the first of the week. Permits amounting to $13,305 were let, including a one-story brick store to be built at 59-61 West Peachtree street. The estimated cost of this store is $5,000. It is to be used for mercantile purposes, and this mercantile enterprise marks the beginning of this section of Atlanta for mercantile purposes.

Demand for Office Space.

Sufficient applications to fill the Connally building for store and office space are already on hand, despite the general talk in Atlanta that the supply of office building space exceeds the demand.

Hurt Building Leases.

The management of the Hurt building has leased to the American Warp Drawing Machine company, the National Starch company and the Corn Products company office spaces in the building.

Apartment Leases.

The M. L. Thrower agency announces that practically all apartments in the Peachtree circle apartments, to be ready for occupancy on April 1, have been leased. These apartments are near the junction of Peachtree circle and Peachtree street.

AS AN INVESTMENT PROPOSITION CONSIDER THIS: 135 feet on Edgewood ave., 145 feet on Spruce st. A 14-room house that could be turned around on Spruce and with very little expense made into two elegant apartments that will bring $75 per month. This would leave 135x100 for an apartment site. On this could be erected either a 12 or 24-apartment building. The location is ideal. The lot is such as will require little or no excavating. We will turn the house around and sell the frontage, or will sell as a whole. The price on this is lower than anything else along this street. We do not want to put the price in print, because we want you to get the full benefit of the sacrifice. It will surprise you. See Clark & Stewart, 629 Healey building.

JEWISH CLUB TO BUILD HANDSOME CLUBHOUSE

Pryor Street Site Already Purchased—$6,000 Raised at Enthusiastic Banquet.

Six thousand dollars was raised at an enthusiastic banquet of the Jewish Progressive club last night to start the erection of a new club house, building to begin by April 10, and bids for excavation to be received at once by Ben Massell, president of the club holding company.

Brilliant addresses and convivial toasts punctuated the meeting, at which joy reigned unconfined and fellowship and patriotism was the keynote of the talks.

Leonard J. Grossman was toastmaster of the evening. "With pessimism relegated to the rear we can support the build now campaign," said Mr. Grossman.

J. Eplan, president of the club, delivered a stirring address. Charles Smullian, vice president, was the next speaker introduced. Ben Massell, a well-known real estate man and a member of the club, spoke next. He announced that the club holding company had made a quiet canvass, and was in a position to report $4,000 worth of stock sold. He said the site for the club house, which is on Pryor street, between Eugenia and Rawson streets, had been purchased; the bond for title to be surrendered and the deed to the lot to be made during the next week.

Joseph Luxear, a prime mover in the activities of the Jewish Progressive club, and past president of the organization, was called on next and delivered an appeal that resulted in $2,000 additional being raised.

R. A. Friedson delivered a very entertaining talk. Other speakers who were enthusiastically applauded were Harry Edison and Sam Boorstein.

Over one hundred members of the club were present at the banquet, which was held in the Alliance. A feature of the gathering was the announcement of Mr. Ben Massell that regardless of how much stock any one else would buy, he would buy $50 in excess of the largest stockholder in the organization. He was called and forced to make several times as the banquet progressed.

Charges by Drysdale Are Still Being Considered.

The hearing before Mayor James G. Woodward and officers of the purchasing department Tuesday on the charges of irregularities brought by William Drysdale, agent for Boyd Brothers company, of Philadelphia, in connection with the contract for the purchase of an engine and truck for the fifth ward engine house, will be resumed today. Both sides were heard Tuesday, and an effort was made to settle the controversy by a ballot. It is said that Mayor Woodward and Councilman Parkinger, chairman of the finance committee, voted to recall the contract and advertise over for the bids on the apparatus. Comptroller Goldsmith and Purchasing Agent Chambers took the position that the contract was awarded legally and declined to go back on the former action of the committee.

Mayor Woodward signed the contract last week after Drysdale's protest. He told the mayor that certain papers were carried out of the committee room by P. O. Herbert, agent for the American La France company, the corporation which was successful. Drysdale made the statement that he believed the papers taken from the room by Hebert had been tampered with. Comptroller Goldsmith said Tuesday that he was certain that the disappearance of the papers from the committee room did not change the figures in the bid, nor alter the guarantee or proposal submitted by the winning bidder.

TRIPPED BY COMPANIONS, BOY'S LEG IS BROKEN

The directors of the Atlanta Music Festival association are pleased with the sale of opera tickets so far, and declare that the prospects are bright for another successful opera season.

The season tickets to all parts of the house, which are now on sale at the general public at the stores of the Cable company, on Broad street, and Phillips & Crew, on Pryor street, are going rapidly. Opera patrons seem to be "coming early to avoid the rush," and the best seats in the house are being rapidly picked over.

Treasurer C. B. Bidwell also finds on his desk, in the Atlanta National Bank building every morning heavy mails ordering tickets for out-of-town patrons.

The sale of season tickets will continue through March 27.

"LIES; DIRTY POLITICS," FAIN SAYS TO CHARGES

Exonerated, Asserts Fain.

"Your every statement tonight is nothing short of political trickery. The indictments are lies, and I was exonerated in court of those charges."

"But," interrupted the mayor, "Hugh Dorsey says that you settled them for $800 each."

"Then, Hugh Dorsey is a liar," said Mr. Fain.

At this point of the stormy scene it appeared that a "roughhouse" would be started, and Commissioner Vernoy quickly moved that the roll be called for election of a chairman.

When his name was called he arose to explain why he voted for Mr. Fain, and said:

Political Trickery, Charges Vernoy.

"The political trickery brought to light here tonight was born in the bowels of hell itself. This board is composed wholly of gentlemen, and none such men as the mayor has objected to you. I heartily and cheerfully indorse Mr. Fain."

Then, turning to the mayor, Mr. Vernoy continued:

"Among us whose hands are immaculate let him cast the first stone. Do not pull down the pillars of the house we are trying to build, but let each man unite in the best interest of the board."

The ballot was then taken.

When Mr. Fain took the chair he said he regretted the political fracas that had featured his election, but that he thanked his friends for standing by him.

"To the mayor's remarks, I will reply later," he said. "It is up to us now to get down to business."

At his rap on the table the board proceeded with its regular business.

In the police chief's office, following the board meeting, Mr. Fain confronted Commissioner Edwin P. Johnson with the accusation of deserting him, when, he said, Mr. Johnson had pledged to vote for him.

Several hot phrases passed between the two commissioners. Mr. Johnson denying that he had ever pledged him his vote.

"Had I done so," said Mr. Johnson, "I surely would have carried out my word."

Commissioner Vernoy was elected vice chairman of the board unanimously, by a vote of 7 to 4. Commissioner Holland was elected secretary unanimously.

Dorsey's Statement.

Solicitor Hugh Dorsey was called over the phone after the adjournment of the police board and asked about the Fain cases by The Constitution. He said:

"It is all a mistake, as far as I can recall, about any $500 being paid to settle the cases. As I remember the matter, the cases were nol-prossed on the payment by Mr. Fain of the nominal costs, which amounted probably to about $25 in each case. There was no settlement of the indictments at all, and sorry that my name was introduced in the police board meeting and that any one should have been called upon to even intimate that I spoke an untruth, for I never said to any one that Mr. Fain's cases were settled by the payment of any specified amount."

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Eat Less Meat If You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Trouble—Salts Fine for Kidneys.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poisons. When your kidneys hurt, you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder disorders.

PRYOR STREET MONEY SEEMS IN JEOPARDY

Mayor Woodward Says Second Ward Representatives May Have Acted Illegally.

The resolution authorizing the transfer of $16,000 from the finance sheet to the county commissioners to purchase the material for paving South Pryor street appeared to be in jeopardy last night.

After leaving the meeting of the police board, Mayor Woodward said that his intention was to go over to his office in the city hall to resume his investigation of the resolution. He also said that from the facts he has gathered he is convinced that the three representatives of the second ward acted illegally when they authorized the transfer of the money.

May Have Several Vetoes.

"I have several other similar papers to investigate," said the mayor, "and it is likely that I will have several vetoes to send back to the general council to consider them all illegal. However, if there is anything to tell the people I will do so later."

The resolution, which the mayor has under consideration was passed up by the street committee at a recent meeting. It provides for the use of the $15,000 appropriated by the finance committee for the South Pryor street work, and an additional $1,000 from the streets ordinary fund of the second ward, making up the lump sum of $16,000 over to the county commissioners to cover the paving of South Pryor from Vassar to Georgia avenue.

Why Transfer Was Made.

The transfer was made on the suggestion of the county commissioners. It was pointed out by the street committee that the South Pryor street job would probably reach $20,000, and in order to expedite the work and get it started and completed before the spring of the year, the commissioners agreed to make good the deficit because the street work and the money appropriated, provided the city turned over its appropriation to the commissioners to purchase the material. The Georgia Railway and Power company turned over to the commissioners $2,400 representing its share in the cost of the work.

According to Commissioner Winn, chairman of the public works committee of the county board, the contract has already been let with the Southern Clay Manufacturing company, of Chattanooga, for the delivery of $60,800 vitrified paving blocks at a price of $12,618, or $22.30 per 1,000. It is understood that the bricks have already been shipped to Atlanta.

Mayor Woodward wants to know what has become of the Belgian blocks which were taken from South Pryor street.

"MIRROR EYE" MARKS LITTLE ATLANTA BOY

clan, Dr. Dunbar Roy, is making a study of the case and is securing data from eminent scientists and specialists throughout the world. He intends to make personal report of the case next summer to the New York Medical society.

M. Lutzk, the boy's father, was born in Russia. The boy was born in Atlanta seven years ago.

Teacher Made the Discovery.

It was not discovered until he started to school last September that there was anything remarkable about the boy's vision. The discovery was made by his teacher, Miss Henley, when she began to instruct him how to write. He insisted, in the first instance, to write with his left hand. Miss Henley for some time looked at his queer writing and thought it only the crude attempts of a beginner. She could not read what he wrote until one day, accidentally holding his writing before a mirror, saw that he was doing good penmanship, but in a reverse manner. She then tried to make him hold his pen in his right hand and make his letters in the ordinary right to left style.

"You are making me write backwards," the boy exclaimed.

It was ascertained that he saw the words in his reader backwards. A report was made to his parents and they had Dr. Roy to make an examination. He found the boy's eyes normal, but by several experiments ascertained that he was looking at everything backwards.

There is nothing abnormal with the boy's eyes. The trouble is with a peculiar formation of that portion of the brain which receives the visual impression from the retina of the eye. This is explained by Dr. Roy.

Similar Case in Same Family.

Although such cases are remarkably rare, yet there are two cases in the Lutzk family. Mr. Lutzk states that a brother of Mrs. Lutzk, who lives in South Carolina, and who is well educated in Hebrew, writes all of his Hebrew letters backwards, just as young Harold is now writing his English.

Harold has a relative, Birdie Rosenthal, a girl in the Fair Street school, who is trying to help the little fellow all she can in his studies. Every evening she endeavors to help him overcome the handicap of a reverse vision, but neither she nor his teacher has yet been able to make him overcome the trouble. He persists in writing each word left hand and making his characters backwards. He thinks he is right because he sees that way.

"The boy is a hard worker and is trying his best to get an education," stated Miss Henley to a reporter of The Constitution Tuesday morning. "His mind is active and he is a good and studious boy, but I cannot make him see things as he should."

Explains the "Mirror Eye."

When asked about the case, Dr. Roy said:

"The case is truly a remarkable one. Only a very few such have ever been reported by physicians and specialists. I am making a study of the boy's strange vision and have written to scientists in this country and Europe to secure data. Until I can get this I will not be in a position to say whether or not there can be a cure.

"The trouble is not with the boy's eyes, but with a peculiar formation of that portion of the brain upon which is imprinted the pictures carried through the eye to the brain. The brain center where such pictures are made is not in a proper position with relation to the eyesight. You know we all see everything upside down, but this boy sees not only upside down, but also backwards. It has been called the 'mirror eye.'"

The "mirror eye" has long claimed a place in fiction and so rare has been the cases in actual life that even many physicians have doubted that it ever existed.

When asked if he saw all right, Harold told The Constitution reporter that he could see as well as anybody.

"I think I see all right," he said. "My teacher says I am writing backwards, but I think it is she who writes backwards."

COUNTERFEIT PLANT FOUND AT GULF PORT

Gulfport, Miss., March 9.—Counterfeit dollars and half dollars and apparatus for their manufacture, were discovered near here today on the premises formerly occupied by Louis Martin, a resident of this section for more than twenty years, according to the police. Martin previously had been arrested by a special agent of the treasury department following the alleged discovery of spurious coins in his home and evidence that they had been manufactured there. The police claim that the counterfeits had been circulated on the Mississippi gulf coast for the last five years.
